West Side Legion Had Stroll to State

By DON LINDSTROM State Journal Sports Writer

Ray Clausen has reason to be a "little excited" about his Madison West Side Legion

West Side has a 10-game victory string after struggling early this season, and last weekend gained a measure of revenge from always-troublesome La Crosse by rolling through the Middleton regional tournament, West Side became the first team to earn a berth in the State Legion Tournament opening Aug. 8 in Delavan.

"GOSH, IT'S good to be back in the State tournament," said Clausen, whose 11 years of coaching have produced a 230-88 overall record and a 1967 state champion with West Side.

DAVE BRYANT

"It's the first time since 1969 and has seemed like forever," he added. "La Crosse knocked us out in 1970 and 1971, and Lake Mills did it last year.

"But this team has really come along and I'm so pleased. When we started we struggled. We were always in the games, but we lost so five games of the regular sea- to come back off the wall. It's many by one-run margins. During the last three weeks we hit well and our defense improved. We've had the good pitching all year."

Clausen may be overstepping bounds of usual coaching reluctance, but he believes West Side will do well at state.

"WE'VE PLAYED some very good teams, and I believe we're as good as any of them in the tournament," he added. "You've got to have good pitching to be a contender, and we have good pitching.

West Side won its scenic Legion league championship with a 10-2 record, losing twice to Verona.

West Side finished with a 27-11 record, and won the final son and then toppled Sloughton, 24-0; Madison Post 57. 3-2; Middleton, 16-3; and La Crosse twice, 3-1 and 6-2, to win the regional title.

"Our turn-around came, I believe, on July 12 when we lost twice to Beloit," added Clausen. "We hit (Bob) Jeffers and (Tony) Brizzolara for 23 hits in those two games. Then we beat Post 57 with a patched-up lineup on July 13, with Mike Stansell pitching the whole game. We had several boys out with injuries and only had 10 in uniform.

"WE FIGURED if we could hit the two Beloit pitchers that well and could with a bunch out of position like that, we could beat anyone.

"Fortunately in the tournament, we didn't lose and have easier on the pitchers." Clausen had seven players returning off last year's team, and added eight more, mostly from the Madison West and Edgewood High School teams.

"The Little League experience that many of these boys had was a definite help, plus we had tournament experience in high school by both West and Edgewood players,"

CLAUSEN'S NO. 1 pitcher is Crusader Carl (Butch) Maglio (7-2), but he also has veteran Nick Cochems (4-3), Tom Wojta (4-0), Gene Matera (1-2), Stansell (2-0), and Chris Goodrich. He lost Brad Ryan, another West hurler. with a sore arm after he

"Maglio has been great. He hasn't had one easy game, and lost only to Janesville and Beloit, probably the two best teams we've played this year. He threw a one-hitter and struck out 14 in nine innings against La Crosse," said Clausen.

Michel, a congressman from Illinois, who has been credited with every GOP victory in the series, allowed all the Democratic runs before being relieved in the third inning by Cohen, a hurler-lawmaker from Maine.

The Republicans scored five runs in the first inning and added more in the second. The game was halted after four innings by curfew, to allow the Detroit-Baltimore American League game to

West Side Hosts City Pool Meet

Over 1.000 swimmers and divers from the eight city pools will converge at the West Side Pool for the 12th All-City Pool Meet, held Wednesday through Saturday. The meet will be divided

Death Makes Drivers Think About Safety go along with whatever they

GENEVA, Switzerland @ -Jackie Stewart said Monday that he hoped the death of British driver Roger Williamson during the Dutch Grand Prix would trigger action to improve safety on international race circuits.

"They are generally guilty of not being well equipped with fire fighting equipment and personnel," said the Scotsman who won the Formula I race.

"If we can put out a burning Boeing 707 at an airport, we should also be able to put out a race car with 40 gallons of petrol."

Although Stewart was critical of fire officials at the track, he said the $900,000 spent to improve the circuit which the drivers had judged unsafe last year, now "in my opinion is a safe track."

HE SAID Williamson's death was a "classic motor racing tragedy" that could have happened on other circuits as well.

"Motor racing will never be safe." he added.

Stewart's victory Sunday was his fourth of the season and the 26th of his career, one more than the record of the late Jim Clark, a fellow Scotsman. It also gave him the lead over Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil in the world driving championship points stand-

He Came From Laos to Learn Special Nursing

Enrique Labao studies a cardiogram here

By HELEN MATHESON Of The State Journal Staff

Enrique Labao of Laos came half way around the world to Madison to earn the certificate he will receive here today.

He'll go around the other half to get back to work this month.

Labao undertook the travel clear around the globe — mostly at his own expense — in order to attend an unusual, month-long program in critical care nursing at Madison General Hospital.

A GRADUATE nurse from the Philippines, he has worked six years in Laos with Operation Brotherhood, serving in hospitals and mobile clinics. When he learned he was one of 15 graduate nurses accepted for the program here, "I was so excited, I couldn't talk," he says.

Labao and his 14 classmates — who came from Midway Island, the Panama Canal Zone, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Beloit as well as Madison — will graduate at an 11:30 a.m. ceremony and luncheon today in the hospital's Tower conference

Madison General's Critical Care Nursing program offers nurses in intensive care units, emergency rooms, and recovery rooms, "an in-depths, sophisticated, physiological integrated concept of the pulmonary, cardiovascular, neurological, and renal systems," its announcement says.

The course is the only one of its kind in the Midwest and one of only four in the country. It is the only one to offer continuing education credits.

LABAO EXPECTS to use his new skills in the intensive care unit at the base hospital in Vientienne — "It's less sophisticated than the ones here," he notes — and also in training nurses, aides, and practical nurses.

A nursing graduate of the University of Santo Tomas, Manila, he worked 10 months in a hospital there. Then —

"I was a new graduate, a bachelor, I welcomed adventure, so I went to Laos with Operation Brotherhood." That organization, founded by the Junior Chamber of Commerce International, now is sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development.

Laos has been torn by war during his six years there—there were times when "security conditions did not permit female nurses to go outside of the hospital." But no staff member has been killed by enemy action in those years, and conditions are better now, he says.

"IN THE field I am nursing service supervisor — there are only two R.N.s on the field team and I am senior. I'm the anesthetist (I'm qualified) and I also do bedside nursing and public health nursing," he reports. He speaks Lao and two Lao dialects, Tagalog, Spanish, and English.

A member of the 5-year-old American Assn. of Critical Care Nurses, he learned of the program here through its publication. Since he was due for a travel-paid home leave to the Philippines after a two-year stretch of duty, Operation Brotherhood agreed to apply that money toward his fare to and from Madison.

Labao is paying the rest of the cost himself. He is accompanied by his bride of one year, a medical technology graduate of his university who is a former Philippine exchange student at St. Catherine's in Kenosha.

It's a major investment for the young couple — "but it's been well worth it," he says with enthusiasm.

THE PROGRAM, unusual in its wide range, aims to "teach nurses how to be better intensive care nurses by expanding their knowledge of physiological processes," explains Sharon Pierce, medical-surgical nurse clinician and faculty member.

"We want them to know why things are happening and to understand the reasons for doing what they do. Courses with physiological background like this are fairly new."

Hospital critical care units are a comparatively new idea, too, and their graduate nurses mostly tend to get on-the-job training.

The hospital offered the program for its own nurses last year — "I took it then. Now I know why I'm doing the things I do — and if I don't know, I don't do them!" Miss Pierce observes.

MADISON GENERAL found the results among its own nurses so good, it opened this summer's program to others.

"You sort of see lights flashing as we go along — suddenly they understand WHY they're doing something," reports another faculty member, Mrs. Kathryn Anderson, cardiopulmonary nurse clinician.

While nurses in most critical care units deal with a single kind of patient, "We now feel that even in a coronary intensive care unit you don't just care for the heart but for the whole person. That's why the program involves the whole approach," explains Mrs. Maxine Omdahl, head nurse in surgical intensive care.

THE PROGRAM planners feel critical care nurses need wide and deep understanding of "the whole person" because they sometimes must make life-and-death decisions and start treatment immediately when waiting even briefly for a doctor could be fatal.

The program included three weeks of classes, with considerable emphasis on case studies and problem-solving, and a final week of clinical work in the hospital's critical care units. Physicians and nurses at the hospital all donated their services in teaching it; some faculty members also came from the University of Wisconsin.

IN ADDITION to Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Omdahl, and Miss Pierce, principal faculty members included John T. Corpening, cardiopulmonary nurse clinician; Kathy Bruenig, neurological nurse clinician; Sharon Harder, head nurse in medical intensive care; Janet Bolac, head nurse in pediatric intensive care;

Mrs. Kathy Zwank, cardiopulmonary technologist and respiratory therapist; Dr. Thomas McCarthy, director of pulmonary care, and Dr. Gustave Mueller, cardiovascular surgeon; and some other members of the nursing and medical staff.

The hospital hopes to offer the program again in six months or so.
