Seniors golf

People who like to golf and even people who don't will enjoy the "golf outing" planned at Lake Geneva by the Madison Community Center Bus-Abouts Aug. 27-29.

The group will visit Lake Lawn Lodge for three days and two nights. The cost is $120 per person (double occupancy), which includes a boat cruise on Lake Geneva, dinner each evening, buffet breakfast each morning, 18 holes of golf or horseback riding (more at your own expense) biking, miniature golf, and use of the indoor pool, whirlpool sauna and steam room. Transportation by motorcoach and gratuities are also included.

Participants must be at least 50 years old or attend with someone who is.

To make reservations, call 266-6426.

Windsurfer meeting

The Windsurfing Association of Madison is to meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 2, at Brat und Brau West, 6654 Mineral Point Road. All board-sailors are welcome.

Pregnancy health

Health prior to pregnancy can be as important as during pregnancy. Meriter Hospital is offering a free program, "Preparing for Pregnancy," for people considering a baby in their lives.

"Preparing for Pregnancy" will be presented tonight, 7-9 p.m., in the Leonard conference room on the lobby level of Meriter Hospital, 202 S. Park St., Madison.

The program will help participants determine their needs, wishes and risks related to pregnancy so that health care choices can begin before pregnancy. Meriter health professionals will discuss nutrition, genetics, occupational and lifestyle chemical and drug exposure, exercise and health care options.

To register, call 267-6468.

Orchids and Onions

Capital Community Citizen will accept nominations through July 31 for 1989 Orchids and Onions awards. CCC presents these well-known and sometimes controversial awards to recognize actions and developments that affect the urban environment.

Nominations from the public are essential to each year's presentation, which is held in the fall. Orchids go to individuals, business groups and institutions that have preserved or improved the urban environment. Onions go to those who have degraded the environment.

For a nomination form, call Bernard Saley, 249-7137, or write to him at 4210 Barby Lane, Madison, Wis. 53704.

Day Camp

The Salvation Army Day Camp serves children, ages 7 to 12, from homeless families staying at the Salvation Army, Advocates for Battered Women and YMCA in the Madison and Dane County area.

The camp, which operates Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., provides activities that enhance self-esteem and develop interpersonal skills.

Kite making, roller skating and circle games are among the activities. Field trips are planned to places such as the MacKenzie Environmental Center, Vilas Zoo and the Children's Museum. Swimming lessons and playground activities are provided by Madison School Community Recreation.

To inquire, call 256-2321.

Racial diversity

People interested in promoting racial diversity in our communities and equal housing opportunities may contact the Fair Housing Council of Dane County. Volunteers are needed. Call 251-5599.

Planned Parenthood

A three-session Natural Family Planning course (also called fertility awareness) will be offered by Planned Parenthood starting Thursday, Aug. 3, and continuing on Aug. 30 and Sept. 20, 7-8:30 p.m. All sessions will be at the Planned Parenthood Community Services Office, 416 W. Mifflin St., Madison.

Fees will be on a sliding scale that will be determined at the first class. To register, call 256-7735.

Sauk Prairie

The Sauk Prairie Class of 1964, the first after consolidation of Prairie du Sac and Sauk City, will hold its 25th reunion at Lake Wisconsin Country Club on Saturday, Aug. 5.

About $3,000 from a memorial scholarship fund established by the class will benefit two 1989 Sauk Prairie graduates this year.

The school's first exchange student, Celso Fornies, of Madrid, Spain, will attend the reunion.

For more information or if you'd like to attend, call James Schwarz at 274-6172 between 6:30 and 9 p.m.

Freedom Ride

The Sauk Prairie Harley Owners Group (H.O.G.) raised $16,500 in cash or pledges during its 4th annual 100-Mile Freedom Ride. The money will go to the Southwestern Wisconsin Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Nearly 300 cyclists participated in the ride.

Friendship Force

The Friendship Force of Wisconsin has announced scholarships for best essays were awarded to Rita Abing and Aisa Potter. They will represent the Wisconsin club at the 1989 International Youth Conference in Taiwan Aug. 20-30.

U.S.-Japan event

A U.S.-Japan Conference, "Japanese Martial Arts and American Sports: Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Means to Personal Growth," is to be held at UW-Madison's Wisconsin Center Aug. 7-10.

There will be two evenings of cultural performances consisting of martial arts demonstrations and a variety of dance styles at Music Hall. The martial arts to be demonstrated are kendo, karate, judo and aikido. The range of dance styles include classical and contemporary ballet, exhibition ballroom dance, modern and jazz.

Willow, Inc., a Madison dance group, is organizing dancers and choreographers for the performances. The performers are members of UW martial arts clubs and community arts organizations specializing in the forms being presented.

The program is co-sponsored by UW-Madison and Nihon University-Tokyo. The sponsoring departments and programs within UW-Madison are the Buddhist Studies Program, East Asian Area Studies, South Asian Studies, and Physical Education and Dance Program. It has the endorsement of the departments of Anthropology and Continuing and Vocational Education.

The performances are 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 8 and 9. Admission is $3. Tickets are available at the Vilas Hall Box Office or at the door.

RSVP drivers

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Dane County will have a Driver Escort training and recognition program Wednesday, Aug. 2, at the Red Cross Building, 4860 Sheboygan Ave., Classroom C, 5:15-8 p.m.

Volunteers from Fitchburg, Monona, Middleton and Madison are invited.

The program starts with a potluck meal. Volunteers will be recognized at 6 p.m. and there will be a talk at 6:30 p.m. Driver awareness training will take place from 7 to 8 p.m.

There is no cost for the program, but bring a dish to pass for the potluck meal.

FFA sponsors Washington trip

Four DeForest High School students spent a week in Washington, D.C., at the Washington Conference Program sponsored by Future Farmers of America. The attendees, from left, are: Mary Ellen Nerum, Mike Nerum, Jenny Rademacher and Dawn Snyder. They were greeted by conference director Darin Coert, of Santa Taula, Calif. The group visited the House of Representatives, the Senate chambers, the offices of Wisconsin's senators, Mount Vernon, the Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National Cemetery, the Jefferson Memorial and other sites. The trip was sponsored by FFA alumni and area businesses.

Culture is cable class focus

Political, social, economic and cultural developments in Wisconsin will be examined during a 27-part television course on the History of Wisconsin, which will be broadcast on cable Channel 33 in Madison beginning Sept. 7.

The UW-Madison outreach series, from 7 to 8:15 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays through Dec. 14, features hundreds of visuals from the State Historical Society.

Among other things, instructor Margaret Bogue, a UW-Madison history professor, will talk about the early prehistoric Indians of the Upper Great Lakes Region; the impact of the Civil War on the state; and the role of Wisconsin in civil rights, women's and conservation movements.

Each week's programs will be repeated from 1 to 2:15 p.m. on the following Saturday and Sunday.

Viewers can purchase a course outline to go with the programs for $5, or spend $21 for continuing education credit materials. To register, call 262-2451. For more information about the series, call 262-3731.

Trip to China

At this writing, there are eight places open on veteran traveler Robert Schacht's three-week trip to China beginning Sept. 5. After consulting with the U.S. State Department on its advisory against travel to the troubled communist country, Schacht has learned that his group will still be able to visit key attractions in mainland China, Hong Kong and Taiwan.

Schacht is the director of international seminars at UW-Madison. The purpose of this trip is to discuss Chinese history with former UW-Madison students and teacher who now live in China.

Some of the cities visited include Canton, Guilin, Xi'an, Shanghai, Nanjing and Peking. The cost is about $4,415 from Chicago. A single supplement is $1,035. For more information, call Schacht at 263-2774.

A Great Catch!

When fishing for customers, you have to use the right bait, at the right time, in the right place.

The Right Bait—You're unique selling advantage. It can be a lower price, convenient location or hours, new merchandise or credit cards. You use different bait for different types of customers.

The Right Time—A write for each customer. Some live on pay day, some save for the end of the month. Almost all search for timely promotion of products at lower prices.

The Right Place—Every Wednesday, Neighbors goes to Dane County, Wisconsin, Wisconsin State Journal and Capital Times. Neighbors focuses on local news and community information that can reach your key market area, whether it's East, West, Central/West or all of Dane County (for a quarter of the cost). Members of Ballroom Dance Recreational Sports, a competition dance team formed at UW-Madison in January, celebrate their award-winning performances in the Illinois State Dance Competition. Clockwise, from front: Mew-Soon Chan, of Singapore; Pam Bruni, of Monroe; coach Michael Argue, of Belleville; Alice Lin, of Madison; and Janice Ng, of Hong Kong.

Madison dance team wins several awards

The UW-Madison Ballroom Dance Recreational Sports Team won five first-place awards and three second-place awards at the Illinois State Dance Competition June 23-25 at the Chicago Star Ball in Rosemont, Ill.

Competition-style ballroom dancing is more dramatic than social dancing. The team, which formed early this year, competed in the cha cha, mambo, rumba, swing and waltz.

The team is coached by Michael Argue, of Argue and Engel's Dance Connection, and the captain is Mew-Soon Chan, from Singapore. The president of the organization is Alice Lin, of Madison.

The team presented a dance demonstration at the Dane County Fair. Its next competition is in Milwaukee in August.

Madison diving contest

Nine Madison area swimming pools will be represented in the 1989 all-city diving competition Monday, July 31, and Tuesday, Aug. 1, at Parkcrest Pool on Madison's West Side.

Parkcrest, at 1 N. Yellowstone Drive, announced the following schedule of events:

July 31 — 8 a.m., girls 10 and under; 11:30 a.m., boys 10 and under; 2 p.m., girls 11-12; and 5 p.m., boys 11-12.

August 1 — 8 a.m., girls 13-14; 11 a.m., boys 13-14; 1:30 p.m., girls 15-18; and 3:30 p.m., boys 15-18.

GETTING ACQUAINTED

MIDDLETON — The Westside Machine Knitters Club has been meeting once a month for about a year.

Members spend one hour showing what they have made. They discuss problems encountered and how they solved them.

The second hour Beverly Kanvik gives a lesson. An experienced knitter and respected teacher, she demonstrates old and new techniques.

The group meets the second Wednesday of each month, 1:30 p.m., at the home of Carolyn Denson, 6615 Cooper Ave., Middleton.

There is a $2 fee for the lesson. Members take turns bringing cookies and bars. Carolyn provides coffee.

The group will start an evening club if enough people are interested. If you want to join, call Carolyn at 831-9144.

MORNING BRIEFING

Sutton, Tewell tied for Buick Open lead

Hal Sutton and Doug Tewell shared the lead after Friday's second round of the Professional Golfers' Association Buick Open at Grand Blanc, Mich.

Tewell shot a second-round 6-under-par 66 and Sutton had a 68. They were tied at 9-under 135.

First-round leader Leonard Thompson, seeking his first Tour victory in 12 years, shot a 71 Friday and was a shot behind the leaders, tied with Australian Wayne Grady, Mark O'Meara and Joel Edwards.

Nancy Lopez and Betsy King, the dominant players on the Ladies Professional Golf Association Tour this year, continued their battle for supremacy in the opening round of the $225,000 Atlantic City Classic at Somers Point, N.J.

Lopez was just a little bit better Friday, shooting a 3-under-par 67 to take a 1-stroke lead over King, Elaine Crosby and Chris Johnson. Eight others were 2 shots back.

American Billy Casper shot a second-round 69 for a 4-under-par 136 total to lead Bob Charles by 2 strokes at the halfway mark of the British Seniors Open at Turnberry, Scotland. Charles shot a 68.

Jim Dent and Gordon Jones shot 5-under par 67s to share the first-round lead in the seniors Newport Cup Golf Championship at Newport, R.I.

Marquette to host part of '92 tourney

Marquette University will host first- and second-round games of the National Collegiate Athletic Association postseason basketball tournament in 1992 at the Bradley Center arena, the school announced Friday.

Eight teams are to take part in the Midwest Regional first- and second-round games March 21-22, 1992, with two teams advancing to the final 16 for the Midwest Regional tournament in Kansas City.

Kentucky approves football lottery

The Kentucky Lottery Corp. voted Friday in Louisville, Ky., to offer football betting when it begins operating computerized games in mid-October.

The decision makes Kentucky the second state in the nation to offer a lottery game based on the outcome of National Football League games. The Oregon Lottery Commission voted earlier this month to offer a similar game.

NBA reinstates Rockets' Wiggins

The National Basketball Association and the league's players association agreed Friday to grant Mitchell Wiggins' application for reinstatement. Wiggins was banned from the league on Jan. 13, 1987, after testing positive for drugs.

The Milwaukee Bucks added guard Dwayne "Pearl" Washington to their summer league roster Thursday and released Tony Karasek and Charlie Boyd.

Heiser to join MBA Hall of Fame

Elmer Heiser of Madison will be inducted into the Madison Bowling Association Hall of Fame in a ceremony Aug. 17 at the Holiday Inn Southeast.

Heiser, 55, will be inducted with Norman Hanson of Hollandale and two others, whose names will be disclosed later.

Heiser won the MBA tournament singles title in 1962 and was a member of three championship teams. He has 26 national honor counts with a career high 770.

Tickets for the Hall of Fame banquet are $15 and can be obtained from the MBA office at 221-9590 or from MBA officers.

Burr Oaks Bowl, built and operated by the Iverson family for 29 bowling seasons, will become Classic Lanes on Monday when Phil Presti takes over as owner.

Diving, swimming meets next week

The all-city diving and swimming meets will be held next week in Madison.

The diving meet, featuring teams from nine pools, starts Monday at Parkcrest pool at 8 a.m. with competition involving boys and girls 12 and under. On Tuesday competition involves boys and girls ages 13 to 18.

Over 1,000 athletes from ages 6 to 18 are expected in the city swimming meet at Hill Farm Pool. Preliminaries will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday and Friday. The finals will be held Saturday at 9 a.m.

Correction

A trade involving the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox reported in Wednesday's edition was not official. The trade was contingent on the White Sox signing outfielder Gary Pettis to a one-year contract extension within 72 hours. That deadline passed Friday.

Bears march in like lambs

Duerson's signing breaks quiet

By Pat Stiegman
Sports reporter

PLATTEVILLE — On a lazy summer day in breezy southwestern Wisconsin, the wildest, craziest conversational nuggets out of the Chicago Bears camp pertained to:

- The weather.
- The Chicago Five.
- The weather.
- Dave Duerson.
- The weather.

Platteville, Bearsville, Dullsville. Friday was opening day of the National Football League team's training camp at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville and the gorgeous 78-degree day helped keep 80 players, some 1,200 onlookers and bevy of media cool.

But news? Aside from some contractual maneuvers — most significantly, the signing of the veteran safety Duerson, which left the Bears with five unsigned players — Day 1 of summer No. 6 in Platteville came off without incident.

"If we would have had 100 degrees, I don't know if we could have done what we did today," Bears Coach Mike Ditka said. "Things went very well for the first day."

Duerson's signing helped make Ditka's day. A Pro Bowl selection each of the past four years, Duerson signed what is believed to be a two-year contract.

"I'm happy to remain a Bear," Duerson said in a prepared statement. No terms of the deal were disclosed, but Duerson, 28, is expected to arrive in camp today and make his practice debut Monday.

"What's done is done," Ditka said of Duerson's brief holdout. "It's settled and the main thing is to get in here and play football."

Said an obviously excited Mike Singletary: "I'm excited about it. It's exciting for Dave and exciting for our football team."

Veteran defensive tackle William Perry and safety Shaun Gayle remain unsigned as do 1989 first-round draft picks Trace Armstrong, a defensive end from Florida, and Donnell Woolford, a defensive back from Clemson. All four skipped Friday's practices.

A fifth player, defensive tackle Steve McMichael, was in camp for his NFL-mandated urinalysis but did not work out. McMichael, a 10-year veteran who wants his contract renegoti-

"If we would have had 100 degrees, I don't know if we could have done what we did today. Things went very well for the first day."

Mike Ditka

ated, was placed on the Reserve/Did Not Report list.

"You'd love to have him here," said Ditka, adding McMichael is not subject to a fine. "What good is it to fine somebody? There's a disagreement that has to be worked out intelligently."

Though team officials indicated Armstrong and Woolford were close to signing, there was no progress to report in the cases of Perry, Gayle or McMichael.

"We'll work with the guys in the huddle," Defensive Line Coach John Levra said. "But I think it's bad for any football team to know that its key players aren't on the practice field."

Friday's huddle saw very little of Richard Dent and none of Dan Hampton.

Dent, the most valuable player in Super Bowl XX, broke his left fibula against Green Bay last November and spent the offseason in intense rehabilitation. Preliminary reports from light workouts were mixed.

"I had no idea it would take this long to bring on the strength and agility," Dent said. "I'll be going twice a day, but what I do twice a day will be a different story."

The morning practice found Hampton in pads, the afternoon practice sans pads. But Hampton, recovering from his eighth knee operation in 10 years — that's right, eight-for-10 — spent the entire day on the sidelines.

"So far, so good," Hampton said. "If things go as scheduled, I could maybe play in our third preseason game (Aug. 27 against Kansas City). We'll see."

The only notable injury Friday was a slightly sprained ankle for third-year defensive end Sean Smith. Earlier in the day, the Bears placed tight end Cliff Benson on waivers after he failed his physical.

QB Walsh signs: 4 years, $4.1 million

Associated Press

The Dallas Cowboys came to terms with holdout quarterback Steve Walsh on Friday for a total package of $4.1 million spread over four years, Coach Jimmy Johnson said.

Walsh, who decided to pass up his senior year at the University of Miami (Fla.) to enter the National Football League's supplemental draft, will fly to the Cowboys' camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., today to sign his contract and begin workouts.

The Cowboys already have Troy Aikman, the No. 1 overall pick in the regular draft, in camp, and reports have indicated that Walsh could be traded.

But Johnson said the Cowboys' plans include Walsh.

"We're not considering a trade for Steve at this time," Johnson said. "We plan for him to be here and competing for the job. We're not looking for any more offers for Steve. We plan for him to play for the Cowboys."

A substantial bonus was included in Walsh's contract but it wasn't disclosed. According to the contract, Walsh could be traded to any other NFL team in 1989. After 1989, he will give Johnson a list of four teams he doesn't wish to be traded to.

Redskins' Williams in hospital: Washington Redskins quarterback Doug Williams was admitted to a Virginia hospital to receive treatment for his ailing back, team officials said.

Williams said Sunday that he had suffered the injury about six weeks ago while running on a treadmill. The injury was initially diagnosed as a nerve problem in his right leg, but no certain diagnosis has been released.

Team officials said Williams, who has already missed a week of training camp, will be treated with bed rest and traction for at least one week.

Saints like the weather: Friday was finally the kind of day the New Orleans Saints were looking for when they moved preseason camp from hot, muggy Louisiana to the cooler, dryer climate of La Crosse.

Friday's morning practice began with temperatures at 66 degrees and ended with the thermometer at 70. It was 78 for the afternoon practice.

"Outstanding," Coach Jim Mora said. "This afternoon is just perfect."

The Saints moved to the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse last year in time for a record-breaking heat spell, day after day of temperatures

This year, temperatures have been as high as the mid-80s in the afternoons, but nothing like last season.

And, while the New Orleans area has been drowned in rain over the past weeks, the Saints worked right through two light showers that came during practice time over the past two weeks.

Upshaw disputes pay scale talk: Gene Upshaw, head of the NFL Players Association, disputed predictions by management's labor relations chief that an entry-level pay scale for rookies could be in place by next season.

Upshaw, executive director of the union, said Jack Donlan of the Management Council, made his remarks "to put pressure on the unsigned players."

Donlan was quoted as saying the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal could rule by September or October on the union's antitrust suit against the league. He said that after the decision, the salary scale could be negotiated.

Upshaw disagreed. "All he's doing is trying to scare the players," he said. "There are a lot of unsigned players, especially in the first couple of rounds of the draft."

Mack joins Browns camp: Running back Kevin Mack joined the Cleveland Browns camp in Mentor, Ohio, after spending a month in rehabilitation following his arrest on drug trafficking charges.

In a news conference upon his arrival at the camp, Mack said he was sorry for the ordeal his case is causing for his parents and the Browns.

"I'm a little nervous now with all eyes on me, but it's something I'm going to have to deal with," he said.

Peete takes Lions by storm: It appears that Detroit Lions rookie Rodney Peete may be winning the team's quarterback battle.

Peete has been impressive since training camp opened at Rochester, Mich., 10 days ago, and Coach Wayne Fontes said the former Southern California athlete looks better with every practice.

"I like Rodney, I really do," Fontes said. "I think he has tremendous poise for a rookie. But if he were to be the starter, they'd come after him every different away. They'd give him different reads, they'll try to confuse him."

Peete, the club's sixth-round draft pick, is one of five quarterbacks battling for the starter's job. The others are veterans Chuck Long, Eric Hipple and Rusty Hilger, and free-agent Bob Gagliano.

Buccaneers aren't talking: The Tampa Bay Buccaneers have stopped talking to the media in what players described as a show of support for running back James Wilder's legal fight against a misdemeanor drug charge.

Wilder's teammates specifically objected to coverage of the case, which included stories this week on a decision by prosecutors to charge him with possession of marijuana more than two months after his arrest in Missouri.

Wilder, 31, passed a voluntary drug test administered by the Buccaneers after the May 13 incident. He contends a small quantity of marijuana allegedly found in a car he owns, but was not driving, did not belong to him.

The players held a team meeting Friday and decided to "temporarily" decline all interview requests because they believe Wilder is "the ultimate victim of circumstance."

Wilder's court date is Sept. 7.

Fontenot reports after 4-day holdout

PACKERS NOTES

"What I'm saying is, 'How much am I worth to this team? How badly do you want me?'"

Herman Fontenot

GREEN BAY (AP) — Herman Fontenot, who was absent from the first four days of the Green Bay Packers' National Football League training camp, finally reported Friday, saying he'd been trying to rework his contract.

Fontenot, obtained in a trade with the Cleveland Browns on draft day, was fined more than $8,000.

"I'm going to work. I don't care about the fines," he said.

Fontenot had been selected by the Packers as a Plan B free agent last March but decided not to sign with the team, losing out on a signing bonus in the process. After he was obtained in the trade, Fontenot said he still wanted the same money he would have received as a free agent.

"What I'm saying is, 'How much am I worth to this team? How badly do you want me?' I'm here to give what I got. All I want is conversation about it. Not just tell me what to do. I don't think any man should be told what to do. I'm here because I want to be here."

Fontenot said he was told he would have to prove himself before he asked for more money. He said he held out for four days to make a point, even though the fines were hefty.

"If you want to make something clear, if you want someone to know where you're coming from, see it from your point of view, you've got to give up to get a little," Fontenot said.

"I wanted them to understand where I was coming from, what I feel. I know what I'm worth, playing to the best of my capacity."

Packers Coach Lindy Infante said Fontenot took "an expensive vacation."

Jacke signs, Buford cut: The Packers signed kicker Chris Jacke, their fifth-round draft choice from Texas-El Paso, and waived veteran punter Maury Buford.

Jacke's signing leaves top draft choice Tony Mandarich as the only unsigned rookie.

Buford, who punted for the New York Giants last season, was signed as a Plan B free agent.

Harris, Greene, Stills close in: Linebacker Tim Harris, the team's sack leader the last three seasons, said he was close to signing.

Harris said his agent Ulice Payne and Packers Vice President Tom Braatz were scheduled to meet today in Sheboygan. Harris, who briefly attended the Packers' Friday afternoon practice, said he hoped to be on the practice field this afternoon.

Two other unsigned players were also in the team's locker room Friday — defensive backs Tiger Greene and Ken Stills, both of whom are reported close to signing.

Braatz clarifies Starr comment: Braatz issued a two-sentence statement to clarify a statement he made Thursday, in which he said Harris is represented by a group, RAL Asset Management Group, that is headed by former Packers coach and quarterback Bart Starr.

Braatz said that the Starr group was new in the agent field and was trying to make a name for itself in the Harris negotiations.

That produced a vehement denial from Starr, who said, "That's a total inaccuracy."

Starr said the purpose of his group, in which former Packers teammate Bob Long is a partner, is to provide financial counseling and planning.

"Bob and I have nothing to do with negotiations. Absolutely nothing," Starr said.

In his statement, Braatz said: "Bart Starr is not connected in any way with the negotiations with Tim Harris. Starr is a principle shareholder in the company with Bob Long and RAL Management but takes no role in negotiations for players the company represents."

Just a sprain for Affholter: A bone scan taken on fourth-round draft choice Erik Affholter was negative and the wide receiver's ankle injury would be treated as a sprain, Infante said.

The Cubs are good? Believe it

"This is an odd year in baseball," Dallas Green said. He meant odd as in strange, odd as in unbelievable, odd as in — well, let's put it this way:

Would you believe an Orioles-Cubs World Series?

No, I didn't think so. All right, then, what do you say about an Angels-Cubs World Series? Or, for that matter, anybody and the Cubs in the World Series?

Oh, I see your problem. You just can't imagine the Chicago Cubs winning a National League pennant. That's understandable. Unless you were around 44 years ago, you aren't old enough to have experienced a baseball feat rarer than a Steve Carlton news conference.

Think of it — two months to go and they're actually ahead of the New York Mets in the NL East. Don Zimmer isn't manager of the year, he's manager of the century.

It would be stretching a point to say Zimmer is doing it with mirrors. What he's doing it with is a combination of remarkably productive rookies, a few solid veterans, and solid pitching that includes the missing ingredient of '88 — a stopper in the bullpen. Baseball people everywhere are fascinated by the emergence of the team as a legitimate contender — especially where Dallas Green, the man who built the Cubs' farm system out of the ruins he inherited in '82, resides.

"I'd love to see them win it for the sake of the kids and for the fans," said Green, now the New York Yankees' manager. "Let's face it, those Cubs fans are special people."

So are the "kids" who graduated from Green's farm system to play leading roles in the Cubs' surprise bid to repeat their NL East championship of '84. Outfielders Jerome Walton and Dwight Smith, both rookie-of-the-year candidates, were signed during the period Green ran the show. So, too, were shortstop Shawon Dunston, first baseman Mark Grace, switch hitting catcher Damon Berryhill and pitcher Greg Maddux. And it was during Green's tenure that the Cubs signed free agent Andre Dawson and acquired second baseman Ryne Sandberg and pitcher Rick Sutcliffe.

General Manager Jim Frey put together the final pieces of the puzzle, acquiring third baseman Vance Law and — in the most important and daring move of all — trading Rafael Palmeiro to the Texas Rangers to obtain, among others, reliever Mitch Williams.

Zimmer and those amazing kids have done the rest, bringing the Cubs to within two games of Montreal.

Is it all a mirage? "They've got a good team," Pirates Manager Jim Leyland said. "I said that last year and everybody laughed at me, but I knew they had a few guys in the minor leagues that were pretty good. I said, 'If those guys get somebody to close the game out... Nobody ever understands the emotional lift a quality stopper gives the entire club.'"

Frey did, and the impact on the '89 Cubs has been apparent from the time Williams struck out three Phillies with the bases loaded to save a 4-3 victory on opening day. Above all, perhaps, you've got to hand it to them for not hitting the panic button in March, when things looked bleak.

"Jim and I tried to make trades and couldn't do it," said Hugh Alexander, the Cubs' advance scout. "Well, we couldn't, but we'd have to give up a Dunston or a Sandberg or a Berryhill or somebody like that. So finally Jim and I, we just took the bull by the horns. We said, 'What the hell, we'll bring Lloyd McClendon and Dwight Smith to the big leagues and see what they can do.'"

What they did is now a matter of record. Pennant fever rages anew on Chicago's north side.

Uh, would you believe the Cubs and the Texas Rangers?

Reuss joins Brewers' battle

By Andy Baggot
Sports reporter

MILWAUKEE — Convinced his team has finally established itself as a viable contender for the American League East Division baseball title, Milwaukee Brewers General Manager Harry Dalton pulled the trade trigger Monday afternoon.

In a classic exchange of youth for experience, the Brewers acquired left-handed pitcher Jerry Reuss from the Chicago White Sox for minor leaguer Brian Drahrman, a right-handed reliever.

Reuss is 40 and will be playing for his eighth major league team. Drahrman is 22 and is in his first season at Class AA El Paso (Texas).

The reason for getting Reuss, who is scheduled to arrive here from Oakland, Calif., today, was simple.

"We think it's going to give us a better chance to win the American League Eastern Division pennant," Dalton said. "He's the type of pitcher I think can come in here and pick us up by pitching well and also by adding an experienced presence to the ballclub. That is the valuable kind of presence you need in a pennant race."

By winning nine of their last 12, including a 6-1 triumph over Cleveland at County Stadium Monday night, fifth-place Milwaukee (51-54) has picked up eight games on first-place Baltimore (54-49) since July 18. That, plus the waiver deadline which was midnight Monday, prompted completion of the trade.

"There has been a little more realization that, yes, we really are a contender as people have said," Dalton said. "Had we gone the other way, perhaps we would not have done it. I don't know."

Baltimore and Boston also were in pursuit of Reuss, but Chicago General Manager Larry Himes said Dalton put together the most viable package the quickest.

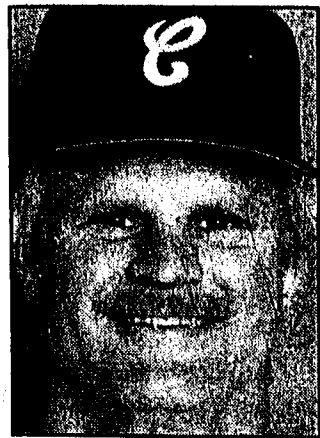

In 23 appearances with the last-place White Sox (44-61 in the AL West) this season, Reuss was 8-5 with a 5.06 ERA. That includes a 6-0 complete-game triumph over the Brewers on May 1 and a 3-2 decision over California in his last start Sunday.

Reuss was 13-9 with a 3.44 ERA

Yount, Brewers back on track

By Andy Baggot
Sports reporter

MILWAUKEE — A prayer, a warning and an hallelujah were among the sampling of thoughts from the winners' clubhouse at County Stadium Monday night.

They were born moments after the Milwaukee Brewers knocked off the Cleveland Indians, 6-1, in an American League baseball game but have roots to events spanning the last two weeks.

A crowd of 17,434 showed up to see the surging Brewers win for the ninth time in the last 12 games and improve their fifth-place record in the AL East Division to 51-54.

They trail first-place Baltimore (54-49) by four games and are but one game out of second. Amazingly, they were 12 games out of first on July 18.

One day after his 19-game hitting streak ended, Robin Yount cranked it up again with a solo home run — the 200th of his career — a double and two runs scored.

Greg Brock added two hits and knocked in two runs, while Mike Felder had two hits and scored twice.

Meanwhile, Teddy Higuera (6-4, 3.23 ERA) allowed five hits, one run and struck out five in six innings. His only major boo-boo was a hanging breaking ball that Joey Belle poked to left for a solo home run in the fifth inning.

Chuck Crim finished by allowing just two hits en route to his fifth save.

Scott Bailes (4-6, 4.32 ERA) yielded five hits and four runs in 5 1/2 innings to take the loss for the Indians, who fell to 51-53 and fourth place, but remained 3 1/2 games behind Baltimore.

The prayer relates to the obvious.

"Two weeks ago we were 12 back," reliever Dan Plesac said. "If you would have said we would be on the verge of being four games out less than two weeks later, you'd have to pray for a miracle."

The warning came via Crim. "We're in it now," he said. "Some people better look out."

The principals of Monday's decision have been central figures in the sudden burst.

Yount hit .396 (40-for-101) with five home runs and 24 RBI during the month of July, improving his overall numbers to .325 with 13 home runs and a club-leading 69 RBI. The club was 11-8 during his hitting streak.

Plesac sang his praises. "I told (Bullpen Coach) Larry Haney tonight this is what it must have been like watching him play in '82 (when Yount led the Brewers to the AL pennant and was named the league's most valuable player)," he said. "He's the best player I've seen in four years I've been in the big leagues."

Mets get Viola, send 5 players to Twins

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-hander Frank Viola was traded Monday night by the Minnesota Twins to the New York Mets, who hope they got the ace who can pull them back into a baseball pennant race that is slipping away.

The Twins received pitchers Rick Aguilera and David West and three players to be named later. The teams met all day and completed the deal shortly before the midnight trading deadline.

Earlier in the evening, the Mets acquired reliever Jeff Musselman from Toronto. That move made the Mets more willing to trade pitchers.

Viola, 29, has struggled after winning the American League Cy Young Award last season. He is 8-12 with 3.79 ERA.

Viola was born in New York and was a star at St. John's University. He will fly to St. Louis today and is expected to make his National League debut when he starts for the Mets Wednesday night against the Cardinals.

"It's a shock for me. It's the first time it's ever happened. I have a lot of fond memories for Minnesota, the fans and the championship, but this is coming home," Viola said in New York, where the Twins were to play the Yankees today. "Now, I'll have a chance to play for a team I grew up with."

The Mets, who missed a chance to get Mark Langston earlier this season, had been looking to fill the void left by Dwight Gooden's injury. Gooden is recovering from a torn muscle under his right armpit and will not be ready to pitch again until late August.

The Mets are in fourth place in the NL East and lost their seventh straight game Monday night. New York is seven games behind Montreal, which got Langston from Seattle in May.

"I know we're giving up a lot for Viola, he's one of the premier pitchers in baseball," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said. "Anytime we can get a player of this calibre, you have to make the trade."

Twins Manager Tom Kelly was asleep in his New York hotel room when the deal was made. He did not know the trade had been completed.

"Frank started with me in Double A down in Orlando, Fla.," Kelly said. "Any time a player starts with you in the minor leagues and comes up to the majors, he's always special to you."

Aguilera, 27, is 6-6 with seven saves and a 2.34 ERA. He had been ineffective recently as a reliever and had wanted to return to a starting role.

West, 24, is a promising left-hander who was called up from the minors to take Gooden's spot in the rotation. He was hit hard in two starts and is 0-2 with a 7.40 ERA.

The three other players in the trade will be announced later.

Viola, the most valuable player of the 1987 World Series, signed a three-year, $7.9-million contract in the first week of the season. He is to be paid a $1.1-million bonus in December.

Infante's search for kicker might end with Jacke

By John Aehl
Sports reporter

GREEN BAY — An image from last year's football season, in the early evening of Milwaukee County Stadium on Sunday, Oct. 23:

It's fourth down for the Green Bay Packers on the Washington Redskins' 7-yard line, the Packers losing, 20-17, in the last few seconds of this National Football League game.

In comes Max Zendejas.

He's going to kick the field goal that will put the Packers into overtime against the 1987 Super Bowl champions. This kick is nothing more than an extra point.

But the pressure or a slipped foot or something gets to Zendejas. He misses at point-blank range. It's a devastating loss, the first of what 'It was like they had never seen a kicker here before.'

Chris Jacke on Packers fans

eventually strings into seven straight losses for the Packers.

Zendejas doesn't see those last six because he's gone by Tuesday, Oct. 25.

But the Packers' field-goal efforts don't get any better as they bumble through three more kickers in the last eight games of the season. Combined, the four make only 13 of 25 field-goal attempts and miss six of 29 extra points.

Now it's training camp of the 1989 season, and the Packers will not allow the embarrassment of last year's incompetent kicking to recur.

That's what Coach Lindy Infante says, anyway.

So the Packers picked a kicker in the sixth round of the draft — Chris Jacke of Texas-El Paso.

On Sunday, the choice looked good as Jacke ripped three kicks, from the 37-, 42- and 47-yard lines, through the goal posts.

Kirk Roach, a barefooted kicker picked up as a free agent, missed all three of his attempts, while Kerry Brady, another free agent, made two of three.

On Monday, in a 15-minute kicking practice from scrimmage, Jacke again had the best time of it, making four of five, missing only a 52-yarder. He also made one from that distance.

"We're not going through what we did last year," Infante said Monday. "If we come out of training camp and feel the kicker we have selected from the group is going to do the job, we'll give him the job."

"If that's not the case and we don't feel good about that position when we come out of training camp... we'll get somebody that's done it in this league. But we're not starting the musical chairs with unproven kickers this year."

Infante also emphasized, "There are no guarantees at that position. If those guys don't produce out on the practice field, or if we feel after the first preseason game that one or two of 'em are not going to do the job, then we'll let one guy finish out our training camp, and see how he does — and check the waiver wire.

"I don't mean to put undue pressure on them, but that's the nature of the position. It is probably one of the most pressurized in the game of football, probably more so than the quarterback."

Jacke kicked every day during the off-season, so he felt he was ready for the Packers, even though he got into camp only last Friday, after a minor contract squabble.

"Now I'm just trying to get used to the snaps, and the holds," he said.

In his senior year at UTEP, Jacke made all 48 extra points and 25 of 27 field goals. His longest was 52 yards, and he made four of five from 50 to 52 yards.

The Packers, who worked hard at scouting kickers after last season, ranked him as the top kicker in the draft.

Jacke said he hasn't felt the pressure of kicking here so far, "but I haven't kicked in front of 50,000 screaming fans yet."

At the Sunday scrimmage, 2,000 to 3,000 Green Bay fans cheered boisterously when Jacke put his first kick from 37 yards, high and clean through the goalposts.

"It was a lot of fun," he said. "I really didn't expect that many people. Then, reflecting for a moment, he added, "It was like they had never seen a kicker here before."

It has been a while.

Kelly, Hayes in quarterfinals

From staff, news service reports

Peggy Kelly and Jackie Hayes, the top two qualifiers, each posted an opening match play victory Tuesday to advance to the quarterfinals of the Wisconsin Women's State Golf Association Match Play Championship at Nakoma Golf Club.

Kelly of Maple Bluff Country Club defeated Ann Pangman of Rainbow Springs Country Club in Mukwonago, 3-2.

Hayes, playing on her home course at Nakoma, advanced to today's quarterfinals by virtue of her 2-up victory over Sue Schmidtke of Stevens Point Country Club.

Kelly and Hayes each shot a 3-over-par 75 during Monday's 18-hole stroke play qualifying round.

Nancy Nelson, a public links player from Milwaukee, and Nicki Tiziani of Cherokee Country Club, who were one shot behind the leaders in Monday's qualifying round, were eliminated Tuesday.

Nelson was defeated 3-2 by veteran Rita Houston of Oneida Golf Club in Green Bay, while Tiziani dropped a 3-1 decision to Julie DeWulf of Mequon's Ozaukee Country Club.

DeWulf was the 1988 WWSGA Stroke Play champion and runner-up last year in the WWSGA player of the year race.

Also advancing was two-time defending junior champion Sara Milley of North Hills Country Club in Menomonee Falls. Milley remained in the running by defeating Sue Joy-Sobota of Cherokee, 3-2.

Yount named AL Player of Month

Robin Yount of the Milwaukee Brewers has been named American League Player of the Month for July.

Yount, a 15-year veteran, hit .395 in July and was among the league leaders with 24 RBIs, 22 runs scored and

.455 on-base percentage.

Yount led all AL players during the month in batting, slugging percentage, hits and total bases, while tying for the lead with 11 doubles. He also reached two career milestones during July as he record his 200th home run and became the fifth youngest player in major league history to reach the 2,500-hit plateau.

Oakland's Mike Moore was named Pitcher of the Month. Moore, signed by Oakland as a free agent during the offseason, compiled a 5-0 record in July with a 2.30 earned run average.

Finks still tops list of NFL candidates

The NFL resumes its search for a successor to Pete Rozelle today, with Jim Finks apparently still at the top of the list of candidates.

A new selection committee formed two weeks ago meets today in the Chicago area. But the material it goes over will not be new and neither will the candidates. The six committee members likely will be scrutinizing the same six finalists as the old committee.

Bits and pieces

The Toronto Blue Jays acquired outfielder Mookie Wilson from the New York Mets Tuesday to complete the deal that sent pitcher Jeff Musselman to New York on Monday.

Christine Boyd, has been named associate athletic director and sports information director at Edgewood College. Boyd is the head coach of the women's volleyball and softball teams and the assistant women's basketball coach at Edgewood.

Steve Larson, athletic director and men's basketball coach at Edgewood, has been inducted into the St. Mary Central High School Athletic Hall of

Jackie Hayes

Fame in Menasha. Larson graduated from St. Mary in 1969.

According to the Rocky Mountain News, the Dallas Cowboys and Kansas City Chiefs are considering moving their training camps to Vail, Colo., next summer. The Cowboys now practice in Thousand Oaks, Calif., and the Chiefs in Liberty, Mo.

Richard Schmidt, a former Madison East athlete, lost to Brad Gilbert 6-2, 6-2, in the first round of the Volvo International Tennis Tournament Tuesday in Stratton Mountain, Vt. Other first-round winners included defending champion Andre Agassi and Yannick Noah of France.

Vicki Welch of Madison shot a second-round 82 Tuesday and failed to qualify for match play in the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship at Pinehurst, N.C. Welch had a two-day total of 163, one shot better than University of Wisconsin golfer Beth Marting.

Parkcrest Pool won the Madison All-City Diving Championship Tuesday with 155.5 points. Hill Farms was second with 140. Individual winners were: Jenny Bryant of Ridgewood in 13-14 girls; Chris Blattner of West Side in 13-14 boys; Erica Torgrude of Hill Farms in 15-18 girls; and Ben Rauch of Ridgewood in 15-18 boys. (Complete results in Scorecard, Page 19).

An athletic orientation meeting for Monona Grove High School athletes and their parents will be held Thursday, Aug. 3, at 6:30 p.m. in the school gym. The meeting will encompass sports for the entire school year.

Rose

Rose initially told reporters he had not won the Pk Six, and, according to Dowd, he repeated the denial at a Feb. 20 meeting with then-commissioner Peter Ueberroth and then-National League president Giamatti.

After taxes were withheld, Rose said he received $109,000 as his half-share of the winnings. He said he gave Metz about $7,500 and put the rest in a satchel, which he carried to spring training. While in Florida, Rose said he dumped some of his winnings into losing bets at Gulfstream Park, north of Miami.

Rose also used "runners" when he bet on team sports, according to the Dowd report. The middlemen were identified as Paul Janszen, a bodybuilder who once sold barrels; Tommy Gioiosa, a former college baseball player who met Rose in the late '70s; and Mike Bertolini, a memorabilia and baseball-card show promoter from Brooklyn, N.Y.

Sports betting is legal only in Nevada; although bettors are rarely prosecuted, their offense is punishable under federal law, if the bet was placed in another state, by a maximum fine of $10,000 and/or two years in prison.

Janszen, who recently served four months in a halfway house for filing a false tax return, has cooperated with the Dowd probe. Bertolini and Gioiosa declined to be interviewed by baseball investigators.

Gioiosa, who is under a federal indictment for tax evasion and conspiracy to distribute cocaine, could not be reached for comment. Bertolini's lawyer advised his client not to grant an interview.

The key witness against Rose, former bookmaker Ron Peters, told Dowd that he accepted an estimated $1 million in baseball, football and basketball bets from Rose, usually through Gioiosa or Janszen. Rose said he met Peters only once and never knew he was a bookmaker. Peters, from Franklin, Ohio, is serving a two-year sentence for drug and tax-related offenses.

During seven hours of testimony April 20-21, Rose told Dowd that he wagered only on college and pro football and basketball games and only through Gioiosa, who is known as "Gio." Rose testified that during the NFL season he gave his bets to Gioiosa on Sunday mornings. He said he did not give "Gio" any money up front—he always bet on credit—or ask him to disclose the name of their bookmaker.

Rose said he bet $1,000 on each game that he liked. But if the hometown Bengals were playing on TV, he said he wagered $500 "just to root for them," even if he didn't "like" the game.

During the basketball season, Rose would bet on college and pro games, but only if they were televised in Cincinnati or if his satellite dish could pull them in. "I like to watch sports on TV and I like to bet them if I'm watching them," he said. "Hell, I've got a $25,000 television unit at home. I get everything."

(During the '85 baseball season Rose explained to an interviewer why he had his three large-screen TV sets tuned to three different games in his home: "I like to scout teams we're going to be playing.") Thursday: Pete's shady pals.

Bears

"He knows what is really important is to win football games," said Bears guard Mark Bortz, who grew up in Pardeeville. "To him, that's all that matters."

Quarterback Mike Tomczak, a former Ditka whipping boy, agrees. "He's pretty cool now," said Tomczak, not referring to Ditka's temperature. "He's lost some weight and he understands what's right and what's wrong for him. "But he just wants to win. He wants to win it all this year."

Some say that goal of winning it all eventually will bring out the old Ditka. In fact, quarterback Jim Harbaugh thinks the old Ditka never left.

"I didn't really see all that much difference in him a week after he had his heart attack," said Harbaugh. "So I'm sure there won't be any difference this year."

He weighs what? Since the Bears have refused to reveal how much defensive tackle William "The Refrigerator" Perry weighed when he reported to camp Monday, reporters have been having fun trying to track down the hefty Perry's weight.

As of Tuesday afternoon, the most popular rumor was 335 pounds for Perry, who spent much of last season's training camp in an eating disorder clinic. But Ditka did what he could Tuesday to put an end to the mystery.

For what it's worth, following Tuesday's hot practices, this reporter's guess is 325 pounds.

Glad to be back: After getting released by the Green Bay Packers, former Bears punter Maury Buford was elated to sign a free agent contract with the Bears Monday.

"To borrow a saying, I'm as happy as a gopher in soft ground to be back in the Bears organization," said Buford at his first practice Tuesday.

Buford punted for the Bears in the 1985-86 seasons.

Also in camp for the first time Tuesday was veteran safety Shaun Gayle, who signed a new contract Monday.

Costly holdouts: Ditka said that veteran defensive tackle Steve McMichael, who has yet to practice because he wants his contract renegotiated, has been fined $1,000 a day since Sunday.

He also said that the chances of being starters this season for the Bears' two first-round draft picks who are also holding out — defensive end Trace Armstrong and cornerback Donnell Woolford — are slim to none.

Reuss

Sutton wore No. 20 for all those years in Los Angeles.

Reuss and Sutton have a couple of things in common.

They both played for the Dodgers. And they were both acquired by the Brewers for a late-season reason.

To cop a crown. Sutton was obtained from the Houston Astros for Kevin Bass, Frank DiPino and Mike Madden (the aforementioned flop).

The swap was consummated on Aug. 30, 1982.

Sutton, then 37, joined a rotation that included Vuckovich, Mike Caldwell and Doc Medich.

Down the September/October stretch, Sutton posted a 4-1 record and a 3.29 earned-run average.

He won the division-clinching game at Baltimore on the final day of the season. But you already know that.

It's hard not to know that with the Brewers, notably general manager Harry Dalton, reminding everybody of that. Somebody should remind Dalton that he almost waited too long to determine his team was a contender and needed some help.

Reuss is better than nothing, essentially what Dalton had to give up to get him.

(Not that Reuss was upset. He was once peddled for Scipio Spinks, no relation to Leon or Michael.)

Nobody then expects Reuss to be Mark Langston or Frank Viola. Mike Boddicker would be good enough.

Boddicker was a late-season acquisition and springboard for Boston a year ago.

The Brewers are just hoping there's still some spring left in Reuss' legs. All he has to do is measure up to No. 21.

By the way, Reuss and Sutton now share that number in Milwaukee lore with Warren Spahn.

Some of you may be old enough to remember.

Kemp, Aubrey Matthews, Carl Bland and impressive rookie Jeff Query for the five or six openings.

Affholter said he's studying hard and that his ankle is feeling better. "It's a day-to-day thing right now," he said. "I'm getting a lot of rehabilitation and I should be ready to play in the first exhibition game."

Affholter, a popular player at USC who isn't used to playing the bad-guy role, also said he's finding a way to manage amidst the mess he has made.

"First of all, for a rookie it's going to be quiet anyway. But for a rookie who comes in here and isn't practicing it's going to be extra quiet," he said.

"Those are the things that you deal with as a rookie and I'm learning all about them."
