DOG RACING Dairyland Greyhound Park general manager Don Hess says he will continue to act as a consultant for the Kenosha race track despite his resignation. Hess, 33, quit his position at the Kenosha track - promoted as the nation's largest — following the stock divestiture by four Alabama investors who brought him into the project.

The four Alabama investors, also known as the American Racing Group, announced July 26 they would sell their 37.2 percent interest in the track within 30 days. Hess said he de-cided over the weekend to resign, adding, "I just felt it best."

The Alabamian divestiture was prompted by the Wisconsin Racing Board staff's investigation of charges of misconduct and shady financial dealings against the four - Elliot and Herman Maisel and Herbert Meisler, all of Mobile, Ala., and Harold Ripps, of Birmingham, Ala. A closed-door hearing into those charges is scheduled to begin Aug. 7. Racing Board officials said they plan to review a charge that Hess lied to the board about the whereabouts of some track records and construction documents.

BASEBALL Kansas City Royals owner Ewing Kauffman completed an arduous bailout of his ill-fated partner and said the ballclub he founded would be offered to the highest bidder.

The Royals owner has been negotiating for months with coowner Avron Fogelman, who was brought into the organization by the 73-year-old Kauffman with the idea that Kauffman could eventually retire with the team safely in Fogelman's hands.

Fogelman, however, saw his Memphis-based real estate em-pire collapse in the last year and needed cash. Creditors viewed his interest in the Royals as his most valuable asset.

■ The Los Angeles Dodgers' revived hopes in the National League West and Detroit pitcher Steve Searcy's continued struggles combined to scuttle a proposed deal that would have returned outfielder Kirk Gibson to the Tigers. Rumors of a Gibson-for-Searcy deal surfaced about three weeks ago, but Detroit rejected the deal. Manager Sparky Anderson said at the time that he wanted the left-hander in his starting rotation for the rest of the year. General manager Bill Lajoie, however, called his Los Angeles counterpart, Fred Claire, Tuesday in a bid to land Gibson before the midnight trading deadline. This time, the Dodgers rejected the trade. By Tuesday, Searcy had compiled a 1-2 record and a 5.82 earned-run average in four starts.

The St. Louis Cardinals called an early afternoon news conference for today to make what was expected to be the announcement that Joe Torre will be the new Cardinals manager. Published reports in the past few days have said that Torre was to be the successor to Whitey Herzog.

BOXING George Foreman knocked out overmatched Ken Lakusta at 1:24 of the third round of a scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight in Edmonton, Alberta. The 41year-old Foreman improved his record to 23-0 since he ended a 10-year retiremennt in 1987.

BITS AND PIECES The all-city swim meet begins Thurs-day and runs through Saturday at the Parkcrest Swim and Tennis Club. Teams from the following pools will compete: Cherokee, Hill Farm, Maple Bluff, Middleton, Monona, Nakoma, Parkcrest, Ridgewood and Westside. Boys and girls in age groups 8-under, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14 and 15-18 will compete with preliminaries starting Thursday at 9 a.m. All relays and finals are set for Saturday at 9 a.m. Ridgewood is thew defending champion.

La Follette High School boys and girls volleyball practice for players in grades 10-12 will begin on Monday, Aug. 13. Boys practice is at 8 a.m. and girls at 10:30 a.m. All insurance forms and fees must be turned in to the main office before practice. For information, call Randy Ramig at 251-6321 (boys) or Bob Parisi at 241-9409 (girls).

The National W Club is seeking vendors for this year's football games at Camp Randall. Interviews for boys and girls 12 and over will be held in the stadium W Club office (Gate 21) from 2-6 p.m. today and Thursday. Vendors will work the Green Bay Packers' exhibition game on Aug. 18 against New Orleans and the seven Badger games.

Negotiations update: Running back Keith Woodside has signed a three-year contract and was in camp this morning. However, running back Brent Fullwood remains among the missing. The Packers broke off negotiations with Fullwood after he failed to sign a contract before the club's deadline of midnight Tuesday, according to Tom Braatz, the vice president of football operations.

As far as the Don Majkowski negotiations are concerned, Braatz said he'll give the third-year quarterback and his agent, Randy Vataha, until Friday to learn if there's any interest from teams for making a trade. At that point, Braatz said, he'll begin discussions with Vataha again.

Meanwhile, Majkowski has other worries. His father Fred, a Buffalo firefighter, suffered a stroke over the weekend. The elder Majkowski, 51, had been intimately involved in his son's contract discussions with Vataha.

Trade talk: Braatz said some teams have made initial inquiries about trades. The Packes are deep in running backs and tight ends and are thin in the defensive line. Also, with the holdouts, they are short-handed in the offensive line and quarterback.

"If we have any holes as we start the pre-season, then we'll have to make some deals," said Braatz.

Mandarich, Murphy scuffle: It was brief, but interesting. During practice Tuesday morning, 6-5, 290-pound Tony Mandarich and 6-2, 200-pound strong safety Mark Murphy exchanged a few blows after the second-year tackle tried to block the blitzing strong safety.

"It was one swing and then n," joked Murphy. "If he had run," come after me it would have been bob and weave, bob and weave.'

Newsday

NEW YORK — Hank Stein-brenner, selected Tuesday by his father George to take control of the New York Yankees, is just like the old man - brash, demanding and opinionated.

That is the portrait painted by some people who have known young Steinbrenner since he worked in the club's minor league system and as a horsebreeder in Florida. In fact, in one of his blunt appraisals of the Yankees in 1986, Hank — disgusted with the team's habit of squandering leads — said that the club "had all the killer instinct of a Quaker.'

being groomed to take over the Yankees even before the decision by baseball Commissioner Fay Vincent that demoted George to a limited partner. The younger Steinbrenner served as one of his father's advisers as early as 1986 and, according to several present and former Yankee officials, was forceful and persuasive in urging his father to make several controversial moves.

The elder Steinbrenner once proclaimed: "He's probably given me better advice ... than some of these baseball guys I've got around me.'

vided a peek behind the closed doors of the 11-hour session Monday that culminated in the announcement of Steinbrenner's lifetime ban as the man in charge of the Yankees. What emerged was a picture of a determined but equitable Vincent allowing Steinbrenner to choose his poison - with no room for plea bargaining.

When Steinbrenner arrived at Vincent's office at 9:15 a.m. Monday, Vincent immediately told him of his decision that Steinbrenner had acted against the best interests of baseball in striking up a relationship with Howard Spira, an admitted gambler, and later paying him $40,000. He then told Steinbrenner about the suspension.

But after Steinbrenner and his lawyers asked if Vincent would consider another sanction, Vincent began jotting down ideas on a notepad in front of him. That is how he arrived at Plan B, the seven-point agreement that will remove Steinbrenner's 18-year

The two sides then spent much of the day hammering out the details and language of the agreement, a tedious process in which they alternately caucused and met face-to-face.

Vincent emphatically squashed speculation that he held some awful, undisclosed in-formation about Steinbrenner a smoking gun.

"There wasn't (any)," he said. "What you see is what you get.

"The essential message is you may not conduct an investigation of a player and you may not maintain a relationship with a gambler and you certainly may not make a payment to a gambler (all) without the commissioner's office being involved. I think what Mr. Steinbrenner did was to ignore the significance of the office.'

Steinbrenner admitted to those actions, Vincent noted, and those admissions were enough to seal his fate.

Arkansas accepts SEC invitation

The University of Arkansas accepted an invitation to join the Southeastern Conference on Wednesday, leaving behind a 76-year alliance as a charter member in the Southwest Conference.

The Razorbacks will officially withdraw from the SWC on June 30, 1991, and join the SEC the following day. The announcement was made following a meeting of the Arkansas Board of Trustees in Fayetteville.

"We are pleased to welcome the University of Arkansas into the Southeastern Conference," said SEC President Dr. Donald Zacharias of Mississippi State.

SEC presidents had voted unanimously to authorize Commissioner Roy Kramer to enter discussions with interested institutions for the purpose of expansion at the league's annual spring meeting in May.

Colts can't deal Chandler to Bucs

Disgruntled quarterback Chris Chandler was back at square one Wednesday after the Indianapolis Colts announced a deal to trade him to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers fell through.

However, on a more positive note, unhappy running back Eric Dickerson said he is ready to mend his links to the Colts.

A Colts spokesman said the Chandler trade fell through when he refused to report to the Buccaneers.

Earlier, the quarterback's agent had said negotiations with Tampa Bay over Chandler's pay had gone nowhere.

Dickerson, on the other hand, has hired a new agent on friendlier terms with Colts General Manager Jim Irsay.

PGA host accused of token gestures

Golfers Lee Elder and Charlie Owens accused Shoal Creek Country Club Wednesday of tokenism for admitting an honorary black member to avoid protests at next week's Professional Golfers' Association Championship.

Elder and Owens, both black, also criticized civil-rights groups for calling off their plans to protest at the previously all-white club in Birmingham, Ala., when it hosts the tournament.

"You need a tub of water and you get a teardrop and you're satisfied," Owens said. "It didn't go far enough."

After Shoal Creek announced Tuesday that it was admitting Birmingham businessman Louis Willie as a honorary member, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference canceled plans to demonstrate during the event, which starts Aug. 9. The NAACP also said it would not protest. Elder and Owens, who both play on the Seniors Tour. aren't satisfied.

"I felt that we should go to the very end with this thing," Elder said in Charlotte, N.C. "I think (the honorary membership) was just to save face and to get the sponsors back."

"We get one guy in there and everything's going to be loveydovey," Owens said. "I don't think they went far enough." In other developments:

KNBC-TV in Burbank, Calif., which had said it would not show highlights of the PGA Championship, reversed its decision. The station said the change was prompted by the settlement between Shoal Creek and civil rights groups.

Augusta National, which hosts the Masters, said it expects to invite its first black member by mid-October. "I'm sure we will invite a black fellow in the next month or so," Masters Chairman Hord Hardin said. "We would like to express ourselves as wanting to have minority members."

Ryan's fastball eludes even time

By Jim Litke Associated Press

MILWAUKEE — Time. it is said, waits for no man. But it still loiters shamelessly for Nolan Ryan.

Older men have won baseball games and younger men have won more of them. But at an age when he should rely mostly on guile, Ryan is like a young pitcher, still relying on the gift.

While time has diminished everything from the hair on his head to the suppleness of his toes, it has taken nothing away from his fastball. And so the barriers that everyone else must respect continue to be smashed by 43-year-old Lynn Nolan Ryan Jr.

Thursday night in County Stadium, it was major-league victory No. 300. Little more than a month earlier, it was no-hitter No. 6. And only last August, it was strikeout victim No. 5,000. The numbers provide a measure of how often and how long, but not how. That remains the great mystery.

"The way his fastball was cutting away, it was hard to get a bead on," said Milwaukee's Paul Molitor, who struck out twice Thursday night against Ryan, limiting his career total in that department to a respectable eight.

Bob Feller, another fastball pitcher, set a single-season strikeout mark of 348 in 1946, slipped on a mound the next season and never had the fastball again.

"All of a sudden," he recalled in an interview last year, "you're wondering how to pitch to hitters whose names you never had to know because you could always blow the ball by them.

"But that hasn't happened to Ryan yet. It will someday, but who knows when?"

Tuesday night, the Ryan Express rolled into the eighth inning with a 4-1 lead and 121 pitches already credited to his account. He gave up a single to Molitor, ran into more trouble when second baseman Julio Franco misplayed Robin Yount's potential double-play grounder, and appeared ready for a trip back to the roundhouse when Gary Sheffield, one of the American League's hottest hitters, arrived at the plate.

Instead, Ryan reared back and tested the radar gun and Sheffield with fastball after fastball, Finally, the youngster, who wasn't born until a few months after Ryan had completed his first full majorleague season with the New York Mets in 1968, popped out.

"I came up in the eighth and he's still throwing in the 90s (mph)," Sheffield said afterward. "I guess that shows he's in good shape."

Conditioning, concentration, commitment, desire, mechanics each quality, stretched to its limit — seems a plausible explanation for Ryan's longevity. But somehow,

Ryan is more than the sum of them. Always self-effacing, Ryan was late in accepting the game as his livelihood and still has trouble dealing with celebrity. When asked how he planned to celebrate this milestone, Ryan replied: "I don't have any plans. I'm probably one of the most boring people around." In a sense, Ryan is a victim of his own success. He is breathing such rarified air that if he doesn't retire soon, another plateau will be there for the scaling. And another and another and another.

"I'm sure people will find this hard to believe," Kyan said when asked what was next, "but I'm not a numbers-oriented person and I don't set goals in terms of numbers."

Nolan Ryan doesn't have to. Time is still on his side.

Kepper closes in on two-year goal

It wasn't too long ago that Monona's Andrew Kepper looked at himself as a mediocre 50-meter breaststroker.

But in two years, that's changed. He's already challenging age-group swimmer Brett Wainger of Hill Farms, someone he aspired to be like.

"I saw him swim about two years ago at the East YMCA," Kepper recalled. "He was setting records. I never came close to his times. All of a sudden, I got better.'

The two met for the first time Thursday, the first of a three-day affair, at the 29th annual all-city swim meet at the Parkcrest pool. The 11-12, 13-14 and 15-18 preliminaries are today, beginning at 9 a.m., and all finals are Saturday.

Wainger, swimming in the fifth of seven heats, set a city record in the 50 breaststroke preliminaries of the 9-10 age group with a time of 41.08 seconds. He also won the 100 individual medley (1:25.02).

ALL-CITY SWIM MEET

Kepper won the last heat in :41.96 and was second overall. The two will meet in Saturday's final.

Another city record fell when Cherokee's Laura Pederson swam a :21.06 in the girls 8-and-under 25 breaststroke. Pederson also had the fastest time in the 25 freestyle at :16.64.

ʻʻI was excited about the record," Pederson said. "I was trying for it. I'm going to rest up on Friday so I won't be so nervous on Saturday. There's more pressure when you're trying to hold on to first place."

Wainger doesn't feel much pressure. He's already competing in two swim meets at the same time, the other is the Summer Long Course Junior Olympics at the Schroeder Aquatic Center in Brown Deer. He competes today in the Junior

Olympics, then leaves tonight to make it back in time for Saturday's city final and then heads back to the Junior Olympics on Sunday. 'Sounds kind of hectic doesn't it?" Wainger said. "I'll be able to recover on the car ride home and be ready for Saturday's race."

By no means is he taking Kepper lightly.

"We just met (Thursday) and became good friends, but I'm still going to have to swim my best because it was a pretty close race."

Kepper set a goal two years ago to beat Wainger. Saturday's final will be his first opportunity.

"There's a possibility," Kepper said. "But if I don't, there'll be other races."

Teams: Cherokee (C), Monona (Mo), Shorewood (S), Parkcrest (P), Ridgewood (R), Middleton (MI), Mapie Bluff (MB), Nakoma (N), Westside (W), Hill Farms (HF).

Not a single member of the provisional government has been named publicly. The Iraqi government was unable to find leading Kuwaitis willing to cooperate with it in joining a government, said Gulf sources outside Iraq.

An Iraqi radio broadcast, which was also carried by a station calling itself the Provisional Government of Kuwait Radio, said the al-Sabah royal family that ruled Kuwait for almost 250 years will never return to power.

In his statement, the Iraqi government spokesman said that if anyone took action against Iraqi forces, Iraq would "chop off his arm from the shoulder.'

The statement also indicated the decision to withdraw was not made to satisfy international demands.

ates had "contingency plans" case Iraq's president, Saddam Hussein, advanced his forces further through the strategic region.

Iraq's invasion followed two weeks of threats and accusations against its small Persian Gulf neighbor. On July 17 Saddam accused it of stealing oil from a field that includes land both sides claim. He also blamed Kuwait for a fall in oil prices, saying it contributed to the oil glut by cheating on its OPEC production quotas.

Iraq quickly overran Kuwait on Thursday and announced that it would begin leaving when the situation stabilized.

In Amman, Jordan, a senior Iraqi diplomat said Friday: "We believe that the national government in Kuwait can take over all the responsibilities now and they are capable of defending their na-

"We refuse to respond to empty chatter, here and there, by malicious people to whom we give no weight," the statement said.

Baghdad radio also carried a government statement denying reports it was massing troops inside Kuwait along the Saudi border.

But State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said Iraqi troops were between five and 10 miles from the Saudi border. British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd said Iraqi troops were massing along the Saudi border.

And residents of the Saudi border city of Khafji, reached by telephone from Bahrain, said Iraqi troops early Friday evening had laid down a checkpoint less than a mile from the border.

quent jump in oil prices.

Some are howling accusations of price gouging but Texans see good news in the price spike.

The American Automobile Association said Friday its survey of 1,400 retail gasoline stations nationwide showed self-serve unleaded gasoline prices increased 4 cents in two days, to an average of $1.11 a gallon.

The association said spot checks early Friday by AAA clubs in Florida, Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina and the Washington area showed retail prices increasing from 4 to 14 cents a gallon.

Gasoline prices increased as much as 7 cents per gallon in Wisconsin after Iraq invaded Kuwait, vendors said.

Increases at the pump followed wholesale price hikes by the major oil companies.

an average of 3.5 cents gallon. Other firms also had increases.

The oil companies blamed the rising cost of crude oil on energy markets. Prices for crude, gasoline and home heating oil futures surged for a second day Friday in response to the Mideast hostilities.

Some politicians, service station owners and others accused the oil companies of price gouging.

Tom Coenan, executive vice president of the Wisconsin Retail Gasoline and Automotive Trades Association said he would question any further increases, which may indicate price gouging by major oil companies.

In a letter to U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh released Friday, U.S. Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wis., asked that all increases in gasoline prices be investigated.

Ironically, the price hike may

Texas reinvigorate its economy which was flattened by the 1986 oil-price collapse, experts say.

'The higher (oil prices) go and the longer they stay up, the better off Texas, Louisiana, Alaska any of the oil-producing states are going to be," said Stan Duobinis, a regional analyst for WEFA Group consultants of Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

"The country's a net loser but it takes from the industrial Midwest and gives to the oilproducing states. . . . Clearly this . . will get them out of the doldrums. They were already coming around. It's definitely a shot in the arm, in a sense," Duobinis said.

Every $1 hike in oil prices adds 15,000 jobs to the Texas economy, said Stephen Brown, senior economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

Man convicted that caused a chain-reaction accident along Wisconsin 151, killing three people. Jurors in Dodge County Circuit Court deliberated about two hours before finding Brian Braskamp, 40, guilty on three charges of homicide by negligent handling of fire and one count of arson. A pre-sentence report was ordered. Braskamp faces a maximum of 20 years in prison and $40,000 in fines.

Braskamp was accused of setting fires along Highway 151 in the town of Trenton on April 13, 1989. Smoke from the fires drifted across the highway.

A chain reaction collision involving 10 cars ensued, killing Russell Kent, 44, of Glenbeulah, Kenneth Behm, 58, and his son, David, 18, both of Waupun, according to the criminal complaint.

Another man, Gary Pautsch, 42, of Beaver Dam, also is in the fire but a trial date has not been set. A third man implicated in the incident was not charged, authorities said. According to a criminal complaint, the three men had discussed setting the fires while playing cards at the Hilltop Tavern at highways 151 and C.

Circuit Judge Joseph Schultz instructed the jurors, selected in Washington County because of pretrial publicity, they could find Braskamp guilty of a lesser charge - negligent handling of burning material.

The jury opted instead for the homicide charges, agreeing with District Attorney Kevin Schram that the setting of the fires was a "crime of foolish behavior."

He noted that the defendant, even if he believed he had made a mistake by setting the fires, still failed to stop traffic.

Defense attorney Scott Rasmussen of Beaver Dam argued the man who was implicated but not charged actually set the fire that caused the accident.

It's time for U.S. to call in the pros

The Goodwill Games may be history as soon as Ted Turner meets with his accountant. This year's games were at least a week too long, but they served one purpose: They were the final evidence that the United States can no longer send callow youths out to play international basketball tournaments.

The rules have recently been changed to allow professionals to compete in the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona. Even if the college all-stars should happen to win the world tournament in Argentina starting Wednesday, it will then be time to send out the Michael Jordans. This is a , screeching U-turn from my previous position that there was a Magic Line, that Wayne Gretzky, Steffi Graf and Magic Johnson were too skilled and too rich to compete for gold medals.

After watching the U.S. men's team lose twice at the Goodwill Games, once to the Soviet Union and once to Yugoslavia, I now believe it is unfair to send 19-year-olds who seem shocked that players named Valeri Tikhonenko and Toni Kukoc and Oscar Schmidt can find the open man and fling in three-point jump shots.

The sporting world has changed drastically in recent years. Two stars of the 1988 Soviet Olympic champions are playing in the National Basketball Association along with two Yugoslav stars. Oscar of Brazil makes a ton of money in Italy and speaks scornfully of the minimum contract the hapless New Jersey Nets tendered him a few years ago.

Politics will keep some Lithuanian players from competing on the Soviet Union team, but most professionals will perform on their national teams in Argentina and Barcelona.

In recent decades, the United States has sent its best amateur players to the big tournaments. This is no longer good enough. The University of Nevada-Las Vegas, which won the national college championship last April, might have won the Goodwill Games. That team had talent and knew how to play together.

Mike Krzyzewski, the bright coach from Duke University, made jokes about working with players from Georgia Tech and Syracuse and other rival colleges, but it could not have been easy putting together 14 young stars. A college coach can exert pressures on his players during the season, but Krzyzewski has no hook to intimidate these individuals to stop putting up dumb shots and start playing

Brewers take another tumble

Season's over

Milwaukee Brewers right-hander

By Andy Baggot Sports reporter

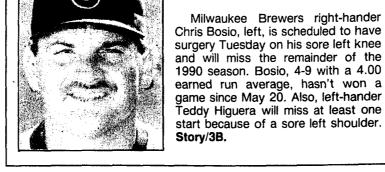

MILWAUKEE — The message scrawled on Frank Thomas' shower slippers - Don't Believe The Hype — was put there last year to let his future Chicago White Sox teammates know that this was not a man to be fearful or in awe of.

Thomas, the White Sox's No. 1 draft pick in 1989 who happens to go 6-foot-5, 230 pounds and once lined up on the same side of the collegiate line of scrimmage with Bo Jackson, wanted everyone at Class A Sarasota to know he was the non-threatening type.

Suffice it to say, that does not hold true for the enemy.

In just his second major-league game since being called up from Class AA Birmingham, Thomas delivered the deciding blow Friday night as Chicago defeated the Milwaukee Brewers, 6-2, before an audience of 24,402 at County Stadium.

Thomas' two-out, seventh-inning triple off Mark Knudson scored two runs as the White Sox erased a 1-0 deficit. Thomas then scored on Steve Lyons' ensuing single.

Chicago added three more in the eighth when reliever Tony Fossas allowed a pair of singles and Randy Veres came on to serve up a three-run home run to Ivan Calderon, his third in three days.

Thus, a two-team race continued in earnest.

The Brewers endured their sixth straight loss - all at home and ninth in the last 10 games. They fell to 45-59 and are just 4¹/₂ games from the American League East Division cellar.

The White Sox, on the other hand, improved to 61-41 and maintained their second-place standing behind Oakland in the AL West. It isn't tough to figure out why oblivion continues to pick up speed.

Milwaukee's rapid descent into

In the six-game skid, the Milwaukee offense is hitting .182 (34for-187), is 8-for-72 (.111) with runners on base and has pushed across 13 runs. The only other run Friday came via a solo home run by Robin Yount in the eighth.

"I thought we had a chance to win that thing, 1-0," Manager Tom Trebelhorn said.

That is because Knudson (8-5) performed extremely well, allowing only one hit through six innings. In the meantime, the Brewers scratched out a run in the second when Dave Parker and Rob Deer hit leadoff singles off of Greg Hibbard (9-5) and were sacrificed to second and third by B.J. Surhoff before Parker scored on Mike Felder's sacrifice fly.

But Calderon and Dan Pasqua hit back-to-back, one-out singles in the seventh. Carlton Fisk then hit a grounder to third that Gary Sheffield converted into a force out at second.

That brought up Thomas, the first baseman who was hitting .323 with 18 home runs, 50 extrabase hits and 71 runs batted in in 109 games at Birmingham, but who was hitless in his first six major-league at-bats despite recording an RBI grounder in his debut Thursday.

Thomas got a 1-0 fastball in the strike zone and lined it to right. At first it looked like a home run, but

Taking a stand PGA drives a wedge into discrimination

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) The Professional Golfers' Association Tour, prompted by the Shoal Creek controversy, said Friday it will deny tournament rights to golf clubs that have all-white memberships or show any other signs of discrimination.

The Tour's 10-member Tournament Policy Board voted for tougher anti-discrimination rules following threats of protests and sponsor pullouts at next week's PGA Championship.

"In the event a golf club indicates its membership practices and policies are non-discriminatory, but there is information that raises a question as to such practices and policies (e.g. all-white membership), the staff is authorized to require on a case by case basis that as a condition of hosting an event, the applicable golf club defense. What is he going to do, take away their scholarships? Cut their meal money?

It's time to get serious. A year ago the Federation Internationale de Basketball (FIBA) voted to allow professionals into previously amateur tournaments. One drawback is that NBA teams are not going to want to give their million-dollar players time off for qualifying rounds, but that's part of international sport.

The alternative, of recruiting college players for a qualifying round and then turning the championships over to the professionals, hardly seems fair.

Then there is the matter of attitude. Some American stars like Karl Malone of Utah have openly volunteered for an Olympic squad in the middle of their summer vacation while others, like Charles Barkley of Philadelphia, have said, in effect, "no pay, no play."

Barkley ought to talk to Oscar, who plays for the Brazilian squad "out of love of my country.'

Ten years ago, American college players were ahead of us," Oscar said. 'Now, not so much. For the next 10 or 20 years, the American professionals would win everything. But then we would catch up.

These are the words of a professional and a sportsman. The Magic Line has shifted. The United States should honor Oscar by sending its best players to Barcelona in 1992.

Favor, who will complete her cross country eligibility this fall at UW, is the second Badgers runner to earn the award. Cathy Branta was honored in 1985. The honor is the second of the

The policy would affect tournaments on the PGA Tour, the Senior PGA Tour and Ben Hogan tour events.

'We are not aware of any (host clubs) that have exclusionary policies," Deputy Tour Commissioner Tim Finchem said. "There are some that don't have blacks but have had black members in the past. We're still assembling data. The clubs will be looked at on a case-by-case basis.

The Charlotte Observer, in a survey last week, found that 17 clubs where PGA Tour events were held have all-white memberships. Tuckaway Country Club in Franklin, site of the Greater Milwaukee Open, is one of the 17 clubs.

Bowing to pressure from civil rights groups, Shoal Creek awarded an honorary membership to a black businessman this week and said it was considering another black for admission.

Commodore looks to pull rank on competition

By John Aehl

Sports reporter

GREEN BAY - The Commodore feels good these days, something which he hopes translates into smooth sailing for him and the Green Bay Packers this season.

But there are squalls on the horizon. Named after Commodore Matthew Perry, a U.S. naval officer who concluded the first treaty between Japan and the United States in 1854, Commodore Perry Kemp is anticipating his third season as a starting wide receiver with the Packers.

And though he'll be faced with a lot of competition for his starting job, Kemp's not concerned. He's used to it.

"You can't worry about it," Kemp said. "It's going to happen every year. You get some big names in here, pay 'em big money. 'You just got to do it. You got to go out there and do your best. Hopefully, it'll bring

Scrimmage today

The Green Bay Packers will hold a scrimmage at Lambeau Field today, their last training-camp scrimmage before starting exhibition games next Saturday. The practice will begin at 3 p.m. and the scrimmage will follow.

On Sunday from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., the Packers will hold a "Fan Photo and Appreciation Day" on the practice field along Oneida Street, across from Lambeau Field. Players will be grouped by position to sign autographs and pose for photos.

the best out in me. So far this year it has." Wayne "Buddy" Geis, Green Bay's receivers coach, agreed.

"Perry is a consistent, disciplined receiver," Geis said. "He runs his routes well, makes adjustments when they need to be made. He's where he should be at the right time. You can count on him. And he's catching the ball well so far.'

But that doesn't guarantee a starting job for Kemp. Even after consecutive seasons of 48 catches. Even with his familiarity with Coach Lindy Infante's intricate passing system. Even though his relationship with Infante goes back to Jacksonville in the United States Football League in 1985 and continued through Kemp's rookie season with the Cleveland Browns in 1987.

He is being challenged by five other receivers, most notably Jeff Query, the speedster who runs a 4.32-second 40-yard-dash and caught 23 passes as a rookie last season. While Kemp isn't slow, he doesn't possess Query's exceptional speed. And Query catches the ball well, too.

'I'm not worried about anything else but doing my job," Kemp said. "What's going to happen is going to happen. Hopefully, my ability will show up better than my competition.'

Geis said Kemp's success with the Packers not only is a result of his knowledge of Infante's system, but of Kemp's pride in his work.

"He's not a big guy (5-foot-11, 165 pounds), but he makes catches in tough situations," Geis said.

That recalls Kemp's 27-yard touchdown reception against Chicago in Soldier Field last year, made as he was falling backwards into the end zone.

"I know I've got to keep plugging away at it, got to better myself," Kemp said. "They're nipping at my heels every day. Hopefully, I can bite back."

Green Bay wide receiver Perry Kemp hopes back-to-back 48-reception seasons can help him fight off competitors.

U.S. won't see gold in men's volleyball

Associated Press

By David Jacobson

He was 39 years old.

The Goodwill Games reached the final weekend with three American world champions on the verge of striking gold.

Figure skater Jill Trenary, boxer Eric Griffin and the women's basketball team have looked just short of unbeatable in early action.

But another American team, the men's volleyball squad, won't be going for the championship. Italy made that a reality with a 15-5, 13-15, 15-12, 15-8 victory on Friday. The United States, winner of the 1984 and '88 Olympic titles and the dominant country in the sport for more than five years, did not have the power or experience to match Italy.

"We weren't firing on all six to-night," U.S. Coach Bill Neville said. By the time we had got going, we had dug ourselves too big a hole."

The Soviets staged a sensational comeback to beat World Cup champion Cuba in the semifinals, 12-15, 8-15, 15-10, 15-12, 15-10.

Meanwhile, defending world champion Kurt Browning of Canada grabbed the gold medal in men's figure skating, overcoming Viktor Petrenko of the Soviet Union. U.S. champion Todd Eldredge was third. Browning was especially pleased that he could come from behind so early in the season, or actually before the season usually begins.

driver of the year.

"It always feels good to win, especially when it's the first competition of the year," Browning said. "It's a great way to start."

Eldredge had a disastrous original program, then rallied with a solid long program.

"After yesterday's disappointment, falling on the triple axel," he said, "coming out and making the triple axel-double toe was a big booster for me."

The Soviets dominated the pairs competition with a 1-2-3 sweep led by 1988 Olympic gold medalists and current world champions Ekaterina Gordeeva and Sergei Grinkov, who survived a flubbed triple toe loop to hold off Artur Dmitriev and Natalia Mishkutenok. Elena Bechke and Denis Petrov took the bronze.

The men's 1-meter springboard was won by Soviet Sergei Lomonovski, the first non-Chinese gold medalist in diving. His consistent performance enabled Lomonovski to move away from the field and finish with 597.00 points.

"As the dives went on, I gained confidence and dived better," Lomonovski said. "I was beter prepared for the 1-meter.'

Tan Liangde of China, who won the 3-meter springboard, took the silver.

U.S. skaters eye Soviet rematch

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) - Goodwill Games organizers must have breathed a sigh of relief after the U.S. hockey team qualified for this weekend's medal round.

Those were the three steps that went through the mind of Parkcrest's Michelle Kramer as she waited in line for heat seven of the 50-meter backstroke preliminaries Friday at the 29th annual all-city swim meet at the Parkcrest pool.

Once in the water, the 12-yearold concentrated on four more steps - the start, strokes, turns and the finish. Staying focused was Kramer's main priority as she set her sights on a double gold medal at today's final.

It certainly paid off Friday as Kramer finished first overall in the 50 backstroke with a time of 34.95 seconds, just edging out West Side's Annie Marschall, who swam in the eighth and final heat.

"I was surprised at how well I did in the backstroke," said Kramer, who will be the top seed in the girls 11-12 age group final. "I can't recall ever beating Annie. I hope it will pay off in the finals."

Kramer, one of eight double preliminary winners Friday, also won the 50 freestyle in a time of :29.96.

Cherokee's Keri Seeliger, in the 15-18 age group, set the only city record with a time of 1:09.85 in the 100 backstroke. She also turned in the fastest time overall in the 100 butterfly (1:08.33).

'I'm happy with the record,' said Seeliger, whose 1987 record still stands in the 100 backstroke in the 13-14 age group. "I really wanted to break the record in the Hill Farms' Janice McKeith is the top seed in the 100 freestyle (1:03.87) and the 100 individual medley (1:14.46) in the girls 13-14 age group.

Sally Lehner, McKeith's teammate, is the top qualifier in the 100 IM (1:15.50) and the 50 butterfly (:33.50) in the 11-12 age group.

Scott Koziar, also of Hill Farms, will be the top seed in the boys 100 IM (1:19.18) and the 50 butterfly (:34.04) in the 11-12 age group.

Middleton's Erik Bauch and Matt Dupuis each claimed the fastest times in two races among the boys 13-14 age group. Bauch is the top seed in the 100 IM (1:06.76) and the 100 backstroke (1:08.92), while Dupuis will compete in the 100 freestyle (1:00.56) and the 50 butterfly (:28.79).

Dupuis is the owner of three allcity meet records from previous years. He holds two records in the 11-12 age group (:27.39 in the 50 freestyle and :29.22 in the 50 butterfly) and one in the 13-14 age group (:27.69 in the 50 butterfly).

Ridgewood's Lee Christensen will be the one to beat in the boys 11-12 age group. Christensen recorded times of :37.76 in the 50 breaststroke and :30.45 in the 50 freestyle.

Philadelphia Phillies Friday night. Philadelphia will send pitcher Jeff Parrett and two players to be named later to Atlanta for Murphy and one player to be named later.

"It's time for me to move on," Murphy said. "I'm excited about the future in Philadelphia. It's a decision I have little control over."

Murphy, who agreed to a twoyear contract extention, is a .270 career hitter but is hitting just .232 this season with 17 home runs and 55 RBI. He did not play Friday night as Atlanta fell to Houston, 3-0.

'I haven't produced like I feel I can in recent years," Murphy said. "Maybe with a new direction, I feel I can play a few more years. . . . I can't put it into words. I haven't had time to reflect on it yet. It's just a tough time for me.'

The 34-year-old Murphy, 33rd on the all-time list with 371 home runs, has spent his entire 13-year majorleague career with the Braves.

Phillies Manager Nick Leyva said Murphy, who is expected to join the Phillies today, will bat fourth and play right field.

"I think Dale Murphy will come in and do what we need," said Lee Thomas, Philadelphia's general manager.

🔳 Reardon on shelf: Jeff Reardon, the ace of the Boston Red Sox bullpen, will have surgery Monday for a ruptured disc and miss the rest of the season.

Dr. Arthur Pappas said tests confirmed the ruptured disc is the cause of pressure on a nerve in Reardon's lower back. Pappas said that if everything goes as planned, Reardon should be able to return Reardon, a right-hander who signed a three-year contract worth $6.8 million in December, was 3-3 with a 3.30 ERA and 18 saves.

Reardon was placed on the 21day disabled list and Boston recalled rookie right-hander Daryl Irvine from Pawtucket of the Class AAA International League.

Boston Manager Joe Morgan said left-hander Rob Murphy will take over as the team's closer. Red Sox General Manager Lou Gorman said he would immediately begin looking for short relief help.

Letter of the law: The New York Yankees' chief operating officer said Friday it was he - not George Steinbrenner - who wrote a proxy letter to limited Yankees partners asking them to ratify Steinbrenner for business powers "akin to a general partner."

Leonard Kleinman, one of Steinbrenner's Tampa attorneys who became Yankees CEO last year, said the proxy letter was sent to the limited partners because of "time constrictions" regarding the ratifying of a new Yankees general partner by Aug. 20.

In addition, Kleinman said, there was no intent on the part of Steinbrenner to circumvent Baseball Commissioner Fay Vincent's order that he divest himself of day-to-day control of the Yankees.

"There was no intent in any way to do anything but comply with the commissioner's orders," Kleinman said.

So why the proxy letter, which most of the limited Yankees partners found to be troubling? In addition to asking the limited partners to extend to Steinbrenner powers "akin to a general partner in all financial, tax and other business purposes," the proxy also asked that they give approval of Steinbrenner's oldest son, Hank, as general partner as well as his youngest son. Harold, "at such time it becomes appropriate.'

"I wrote the letter," Kleinman said. "Mr. Steinbrenner never even saw it.'

Meanwhile, sources close to the investigation said Steinbrenner secretly asked Vincent to delay baseball's probe on the grounds it could harm the federal extortion case against gambler, Howard Spira.

Little League coach attacks, injures rival

WILLOW SPRINGS, Ill. — John Hills was simply hoping his teenage team could manage to beat an opponent or two in a Senior Little League baseball tournament.

What he got instead was a beating that left him hospitalized with several fractured ribs, a broken nose and a grapefruit-sized bruise behind a knee, residue from being struck with a bat.

"I just can't believe something like this would happen," said Hills, 46, who was released from an area hospital Friday. "My team was in total shock. My son was going crazy.'

Hills, of Lockport, Ill., was coaching first base for the Lemont Senior League All-Stars Monday night when he was attacked by a rival coach and others.

Hills said the trouble began when he complained to an umpire that a 16-year-old coach on the opposing Bridgeview team was making calls at first base, usurping the authority of the adult umpire.

"One of the boy coaches from the other team was dictating the calls during the game," Hills said. 'The boy got upset and started calling me a lot of vulgar names." Things then escalated when, after Lemont took the lead, Bridge-view Coach George Loy threatened to attack Hills.

"He said, 'I'm going to take those glasses off and bash your face in.' "Hills said. "I said. 'It's only a ballgame, come on.' I leaned down to pick the scorebook up. The next thing I know, he was on top of me."

Hills said Loy was soon joined by his son, the 16-year-old coach and another man. He said the most serious damage came when Loy's son attacked him with a baseball bat.

'The boy picked up a bat and hit me in the back of the leg and chopped me down like a piece of wood," Hills said.

Loy was handcuffed and taken from the field by Willow Springs police, who charged him with two counts of batterv.

A Bridgeview juvenile was charged with one count of battery for allegedly striking Hills with a bat, police said, adding charges might be filed against another juvenile.

"I was like, 'Could somebody help my dad out?' " said Hills' son, John. "It was hard for us just to sit there and watch some guys beat up on my dad."

Brewers' one-two punch knocked out of action

By Brad Falduto The Capital Times

MILWAUKEE — The news just keeps getting worse for the Milwaukee Brewers.

On Friday, the Brewers announced that the supposed aces of their pitching staff Chris Bosio and Teddy Higuera are sidelined again.

For Bosio, it's a case of the patient being put out of his misery. Bosio, who has registered just one victory in his last 15 starts, will have surgery Tuesday to remove bone spurs from his left knee. Manager Tom Trebelhorn said Friday that Bosio won't be able to run on the knee for 4-6 weeks following surgery.

"As we speak today, I would say he is done for the season,' said Trebelhorn.

Bosio has been hampered by the sore knee all season. He spent June 29-July 14 on the disabled list and returned to the DL Thursday. Bosio (4-9, 4.00 ERA) had the knee examined Thursday at a knee clinic in Vail, Colo.

Trebelhorn also announced that the oft-injured Higuera will miss at least his next start.

Higuera, who has battled groin, knee and shoulder troubles throughout the season, pitched eight strong innings without getting a decision against the Chicago White Sox Thursday night. But toward the end of his outing, Higuera (6-5, 3.34 ERA) experienced pain in his shoulder on his throwing arm. After the game, he received a cortisone shot in the shoulder.

"He'll miss his next start, at least," said Trebelhorn of Higuera. "At least we know where are No. 1 and 2 pitchers are right now — unavailable.

Packer veterans help rookies you did it this way or that way.' When you get help, it makes you feel more comfortable."

One of the first things Haddix taught Thompson was how to pick up the correct defensive protections. That's a difficult and important process for a rookie fullback in coach Lindy Infante's system because one of his primary duties is to protect the quarterback in passing situations

"For instance, I gave him a tip about the 41 defense, the 33 defense and the nickel defense. Haddix said. "I told him that whatever defense the quarterback calls, he should add up the number to determine who he must cover.

BREWER NOTES

Replacing Bosio and Higuera in the starting rotation will be Jaime Navarro and Dennis Pow-

Sorry Brewers: Alex Fernandez, the White Sox rookie who gave up just two earned runs in seven innings against the Brewers in his major league debut Thursday, said he wasn't disenchanted with the Brewers' organization two years ago when he refused to sign with the Brewers.

The Brewers drafted Fernandez in the first round of the 1988 free agent draft. But the two sides couldn't agree on a contract and Fernandez eventually enrolled at the University of Miami.

Chicago drafted Fernandez in this year's June draft and brought him up to the majors this week.

"I had a lot to learn. It wasn't the Brewers," said Fernandez. "I learned a lot in college, not only baseball but about life. I have no regrets."

Of course he doesn't. The Brewers offered Fernandez $110,000 to sign. Chicago tripled that.

"It's pretty obvious it worked out financially for me," said Fernandez.

"If the number is five, he has to cover a cornerback, if it's six, he's got a linebacker. So when the quarterback steps up to the line and calls out the 33 defense, he knows he has to cover an inside linebacker. It's a nice tip because he doesn't have to think so much out there. He just does it."

Haddix said he feels obligated to help Thompson, even if it means he'll lose his job.

"I'm not going to go out there and try my hardest to make sure he screws up," said Haddix. "I don't want to win a job that way. I want to win it because I'm a better football player than the other guy."

"I try my best to help him," Bush said. "Offensive linemen are usually the type of people cnow I'll put the two together. be a cornerback when I can do that."

Lee said Butler and the other young cornerbacks benefit because the veterans all have different styles. "So they can pick and choose from all of us," he said. "What I like about the young backs here is that they all have good talent and they're willing to listen and learn. And when you have guys who are willing to listen and learn, they-'re going to do nothing but get better."

Center James Campen, fourth-year player, has picked up a lot from Blair Bush since they joined the Packers as Plan B signees last year.

"He's helped me a lot, tremen-dously a lot," said Campen, who is making a strong bid to win the him. I wouldn't want it any other starting job. "He's taught me the way."

that you become friends with.' Holmes, meanwhile, may have passed along more information than anybody in the league. A Packer Plan B signee this year, he figures his role as tutor cost him jobs with both the New York

Jets and Detroit Lions. "I taught Erik McMillan at the New York and I was gone the next year," he said. "I taught Bennie Blades and William White at Detroit and I was left unprotected. Now I'm in Green Bay helping LeRoy Butler."

Holmes, whose job is far from secure in Green Bay, just shrugged off the possibility he may be a victim again.

"LeRoy's a fast learner, that's all I'll say," he said. "But if he wants help from me, I'll give it to lining up stations and sponsors and working with Channel 21 on broadcast details.

Confusion surrounding Badger hockey television broadcasts last season was one of the factors which led to the formation of the statewide network, Fish conceded.

"Certainly, that is part of it," he said. "It got to be such a three-ring circus trying to make sure what we thought were really important and very viable games got on TV."

The live TV network will have no effect on Channel 21's tapedelayed broadcasts, Fish said.

Paul Braun will handle playby-play and Bill Howard will be the color commentator for the network. The broadcasts will be carried simultaneously on WIBA-AM/1310.

Braun and Howard also will be the broadcast team for tapedelayed broadcasts on the Wisconsin Public Television Network, which includes WHA-TV/Channel 21.

'I've always had a good job in college hockey," said Braun.

"Right now, I've probably got the premier college hockey job in the country.

Braun said he had decided after last season to give up his duties as play-by-play announcer on WIBA and switch to television this year.

'I am very, very surprised this thing worked out," he said. "I'm surprised that I'm on radio because of the adjustments WIBA had to do to get this done.'

The adjustments, Braun said, involve changes in advertising, logistics and timing.

Braun and Howard were announcers for Channel 21's tapedelay broadcasts for several years until last season, when they did radio only on WIBA. Leu and Ken Syke handled Channel 21's coverage.

Fish said Leu may be involved in some parts of the broadcasts this year.

Braun said the live, statewide telecasts can only be a positive for the Badgers.

"Coming off the NCAA championship, obviously the Badgers are a hot product now," he said. "With the potential of having 18 games live in markets like Milwaukee, that can't do anything but help the program.'

Ridgewood adds another title to the collection

By Tanya McDonald Sports reporter

In these times of fly-by-night champions, the word "dynasty" has lost its value. Win a title - one lousy title — and people start calling you a dynasty.

Champion? Yes. Dynasty? No. You want to talk dynasty? Let's talk Ridgewood Pool. Now, there's a dynasty for you.

When the stretch of consecutive titles outlives every competitor participating in the event, that's a dynasty. That's the Ridgewood dynasty.

ALL-CITY SWIM MEET

Ridgewood made it 19 in a row Saturday at the 29th annual all-city swim meet by holding off a strong challenge from host Parkcrest. Ridgewood led the way with 1,284^{1/2} points. Parkcrest was next with 1,170¹/₂, followed by Middleton with 1.067.

"It was pretty much an even meet until the last relays," said Ridgewood Coach Eric Jensen, whose team captured three of the eight relay events. "That's what about the backstroke and individual made it very exciting. There's al- medley," Verhelst said. "It's just ways pressure to keep the streak unfortunate that I didn't get to race going, but I told the kids to just have fun."

Ridgewood was led by Jason Verhelst, who collected four gold medals in the boys 13-14 age group. He won the 100-meter backstroke (1 minute, 8.03 seconds) and the 100 individual medley (1:06.60) and was a member of the record-setting 200 medley relay and the 200 freestyle relay.

"I was a little disappointed against (Middleton's) Erik Bauch."

Bauch was seeded first in the backstroke and individual medley in the 13-14 age group. He suffered an ankle injury playing football after qualifying Friday afternoon.

"It was kind of weird," said the second-seeded Verhelst. "My back was bothering me in the preliminaries and he had a bad ankle in the finals. Our times were 3 to 4 seconds ahead of everybody else."

part of one of three city records paid off." that fell Saturday.

The first was in the 200 medley relay of the boys 13-14 age group in which Ridgewood's A team of Verhelst, David Frattinger, Josh Hanson and Brady Gomez clocked a 2:03.58.

"This was like a homecoming to me," Verhelst said. "My first allcity meet was when I was in the 8-and-unders and it was at this pool. second with a time of :40.24.
