Pewaukee player says he picks UW

Chris McIntosh, a 6-foot-7, 270pound senior-to-be at Pewaukee High School, told the Milwaukee Journal he will make an oral commitment today to play football at the University of Wisconsin.

McIntosh said he will meet with Badgers coach Barry Alvarez and offensive line coach Bill Callahan, who will offer him a scholarship that he will accept.

McIntosh was courted by such Big Ten Conference schools as Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota and Iowa, along with Arizona of the Pacific-10 Conference.

McIntosh was considered to be one of the Badgers' top in-state recruits and is the third in-state player to give a verbal commitment this summer. Alvarez's staff has also received commitments from Tom Burke, a 6-4, 235-pound defensive end and tight end from Maple Northwestern, and Nathan Kroeplin, a 6-7, 235-pound tight end and defensive end, from Lakeland in Minocqua.

Tony Tarasco of the Atlanta Braves sprained his neck making an awkward head-first slide into second base Friday night.

Tarasco, removed on a stretcher in the first inning of the second game of a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, was released a hospital a little more than an hour later.

After walking with two outs, Tarasco appeared to hit his head on the bag as he slid into second base. The game was delayed for several minutes while trainers applied a neck brace and carried Tarasco off the field.

Alfredsson in control

Helen Alfredsson wasn't as impressive as she was in the opening round of the U.S. Women's Open, yet she set another record at Lake Orion, Mich.

The native of Sweden shot a 2-under-par 69 Friday for a record 36-hole total of 10-under 132. That was good enough for a 4-stroke lead over England's Laura Davies when play was halted by darkness.

An afternoon rain delay of 2 hours, 8 minutes on the Old Course at Indianwood Golf and Country Club, left 15 players on the course when play was halted at 9:06 p.m. EDT. Those players were to report at 7:30 a.m. today and complete their rounds before the cut and start of the third round.

Alicia Dibos, who was 5-under through 14 holes, was most notable among those players.

The long-hitting Davies, winner of three Ladies Professional Golf Association events this season and the tour's top money-winner, won the Open in 1987 before joining the LPGA. She fired her second straight 68, holing out for par on 18 just as darkness fell.

Michelle Estill and Patty Sheehan were 2 strokes back at 138. Estill shot 68 and Sheehan 71 in the second round.

Pamela Wright put together the most impressive round of the day. Wright, starting at 3-over, birdied five stright holes — Nos. 9-13 — en route to a 6-under 65. That left her tied with Donna Andrews and Judy Dickinson at 139.

Wright's 30 on the back side was the lowest 9-hole score in Open history, breaking the mark of 31 held by several golfers.

Madison's Sharri Steinhauer was at 140 (68-72).

Alfredsson shattered the Open record by 2 strokes with an 8-under 63 in Thursday's opening round over the 6,244-yard course. No other golfer, male or female, has ever shot better than 63 in a major championship.

Was it a letdown on Friday? "It is never a letdown to shoot in the 60s," Alfredsson said. "I mean, I'm very happy for yesterday. But I'm very happy today with a 69. You have to forget about yesterday. That is a day that passed you and you are happy with that, and today is a new day.

That's because he held a 1-stroke lead over Kenny Perry after the second round of the New England Classic at Sutton, Mass. Fiori shot his second straight 66 for a 10under-par 132.

Charles had a 72 on the 6,673yard layout to stand second at 211.

Crowd favorite Arnold Palmer, the first-round co-leader, dropped another shot off the lead with a 71. He is tied for fifth at 214 with Frenchman Michel Damiano and England's Tommy Horton.

South Africa's Gary Player, who played in his record 40th British Open last week, was at 213, 1 stroke behind Doug Dalziel.

Packers get their man

Oilers drop ball, receiver Duncan enters fold

Sports reporter

GREEN BAY — His uniform was so new there wasn't even a name stenciled in above the big number 80.

It didn't matter. Curtis Duncan's name and reputation preceded him by at least two years, according to Green Packers Bay general manager Ron Wolf.

"I remember when we played them down there a couple years ago," he said,

Duncan referring to a game late in the 1992 season when the Packers played the Houston Oilers. Duncan, a wide receiver, was in the midst of his best season, one in which he caught 82 passes for 954 yards and was named to the Pro Bowl.

"He was a real fast guy," Wolf said. "Real fast. And he was a lot bigger than we thought he was." Duncan, the newest addition to the Green Bay's burgeoning receiver corps, arrived on the Oneida Street practice field near the end of the morning practice session — and he spent most of his time there chatting with former Oilers teammate Sean Jones.

The Oilers - battling the National Football League's $34.6 million salary cap — were forced to waive Duncan last Friday. They had hoped to re-sign him, but couldn't come up with enough cash and Duncan wound up with Green Bay. He agreed to terms on a contract Thursday.

The Houston Chronicle has reported Duncan signed a one-year deal worth $355,000. The newspaper said the Oilers tried to re-sign Duncan at the $162,000 minimum. Duncan had a year left on a contract which could have paid him

"Things happen and they happen for a reason," said Duncan. "I'm just fortunate to be here.'

Duncan, 29, has was a 10thround selection out of Northwestern in 1987. He started just one game in his first three seasons with the Oilers but started 60 of 64 the past three years. A foot injury kept him out of four games last season.

In Houston the 5-foot-11, 184-pound Duncan was thought of more as a possession-type receiver in the Oilers run-and-shoot offense. Wolf saw more.

"He can really run," Wolf said. "He would probably be as fast as any receiver we have. I haven't put him to a clock, but just watching him play, he would be that fast."

In seven years with the Oilers he caught 322 passes for 3,935 yards (a 12.2-yard average) with 20 touchdowns.

He joins a corps of wide receivers long on numbers but short on proven players. Sterling Sharpe is scheduled to miss most of training camp while recovering from foot surgery. The remaining receivers on the roster have started 11 games and caught a total of 80 passes in the NFL — two fewer than Duncan caught in '92.

First, Curtis has played a lot and caught a lot of passes," said Packers coach Mike Holmgren. "He knows what the game is about. Second, he has great speed. And he's a veteran. It's good to have the maturity of a veteran."

Wolf said Duncan will likely battle with Robert Brooks for the wide receiver spot opposite Sharpe.

"He's got a good chance to (start)," Wolf said. "He has to beat Brooks out, but he's a Pro Bowl player. You don't get there very often.'

Duncan wasn't making any pre-

"My primary objective is to come in and make a positive contribution any way I can," he said. "And we'll take it from there. This is a great team. The only thing I can do is come in and maybe make it a little better."

apparently, exaggerated. ESPN reported that the San Francisco wide receiver might become a victim of the salary cap. The 49ers, it was reported, were going to ask John Taylor to take a pay cut and that a team like the Packers would be interested in acquiring him if he refused. It's true, the 49ers are hurting for available cash; they reportedly need $1.8 million to sign their top three draft picks and only have $1.2 But a source close to the negotiations said that the team would not be willing to part with Taylor who caught 56 passes for 940 yards last season - in order to get the extra money.

"I certainly would be interested in John Taylor," Holmgren said. 'But I would be surprised if they allowed him to get out of there.'

Etc.: Linebacker LeRoy Smith broke his jaw in a collision with fullback Dexter McNabb during Friday morning's practice. He is expected to be out of action four to six weeks. Safety George Teague, still working on his endurance, also sat out the afternoon session. . .

With the remaining veterans scheduled to report this afternoon, there will be only one practice today, at 8:45 a.m.

Poor play hasn't kept fans away

PHILADELPHIA — There are 28 major-league baseball teams these days. which is to say 28 teams bill themselves as "major league," pay their players major-league salaries, and charge their customers major-league prices. Of those 28 teams, nine have winning records, 19 have losing records.

Stop and think about that for a minute. For a variety of reasons, ranging from inept management — surely the primary villain - to crippling injuries, 19 bigleague clubs have been unable to play .500 ball. Nineteen big-league cities have been asked to support teams that can't win half their games.

And yet, as bad as many of those teams are, fans keep pouring out.

DOLSON

If the preponderance of losing clubs says something about the quality of today's big-league baseball and the management types who run it, then the size of the crowds tells you how much people love this game, despite what's being done to

Dick Ravitch, who represents the owners in their current, knock-down, dragout, strike-bound battle with the players, said in a recent interview, "Baseball has a serious, serious problem. . . . Let me tell you something, if you strained out of the attendance figures this year at the new stadiums, attendance is way off. The fact of the matter is, the game's hurting."

Indeed, the new ballparks in Cleveland and Arlington, Texas, are responsible for this year's jump in overall big-league attendance, up 227,268 through Saturday. Throw out Cleveland and Texas, and the remaining 12 American League clubs are down 604,482. The 14 National League clubs are off 553,828.

Clearly, there's truth to what Ravitch says. But left unsaid is the fact that fans in more than two-thirds of current bigleague cities are being asked to buy tickets and root for home teams that would have to improve to achieve mediocrity.

Ten of the 14 National League clubs and nine of the 14 American League clubs have sub-.500 records.

Apprised of those figures, the Phillies' Lee Thomas, one general manager who can't be blamed for the plight of his team, said, jokingly, "Is that parity

If so, it's parity at an alarmingly low level. So low that two of the divisional leaders — the Rangers in the AL West and the Dodgers in the NL West — are playing sub-.500 baseball.

That's a pretty sorry commentary on the state of the game. And, on top of that, there's the increasingly strong threat of a strike to dampen enthusiasm.

With that in mind, recent attendance figures are remarkable.

On Saturday, seven NL games drew a total of 305,305 fans, an average of 43,615. Only the Mets, who drew 29,592 in the rain for the Giants, failed to top 35,000. Seven AL games attracted 243,946 fans, an average of 34,849, with four crowds - three of them to see noncontending home teams in Detroit, Toronto and Milwaukee - topping 35,000.

And here we are, with interest peaking, awaiting the start of a strike that could kill the postseason and leave baseball without a World Series in 1994. "(If it happens), it's going to hurt," Thomas said, "but I think baseball will survive. It always has."

He's probably right. The people responsible for the mess baseball is in today - and the owners rank at the very top of the list — should thank their lucky stars that so many people love this game so much. Frank Dolson is a sports columnist

Finley leads Goodwill squad

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia (AP) - George Raveling has a dozen concerns about his young American basketball team's Goodwill Games semifinal against "The 12 players that wear the uniform that says Italy on it, they all worry me," Raveling said after the United States defeated winless China, 99-80, Monday.

Wednesday's other semifinal pits Puerto Rico against undefeated Russia.

Monday's victory partly atoned for Sunday's 77-75 loss to Russia, a match in which the young Americans had the jitters from the first minute and never really lost them.

The team of collegiate players was more or less in command all the way against China. Lou Roe of Massachusetts led the scoring with 19 points and Michael Finley of Wisconsin came off the bench to score 16, including 13 in the first half. China's top scorer was Sun Jun with 20 points.

"It was like we were out of synch coming into the Russia game." Finley added. "Our game is to run, we didn't get into that tempo last night and not all the time today. I think our best game

"We're probably the most impatient offensive team in this tournament," Raveling said. "We have a whole team of guys who are used to having the ball."

When the game was tied early at 12-12, Shawn Respert of Michigan State scored eight straight points in just over 2 minutes to push the Americans ahead, 20-14.

But it was the 6-foot-6 Finley who provided an even more decisive lift. He scored nine points in just under 3 minutes to make it, 33-20, with 7 minutes, 41 seconds left in the half.

Cobb adds ground game for Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Running back Reggie Cobb carries expectations as easily as the football he tucks away, shrugging off pressure the way he slips past tacklers.

Green Bay general manager Ron Wolf spun the pressure valve wide open on Cobb this summer when he said the only positive way to look at losing tight end Jackie Harris to Tampa Bay was to consider it a trade for Cobb.

The Buccaneers got one of the best tight ends in the game when the Packers refused to match Tampa Bay's four-year, $7.6 million offer to Harris.

In Cobb, a free agent who left Tampa Bay for a two-year, $2.2 million deal, the Packers got a much-needed veteran running back with breakaway speed, somebody finally able to lighten the load of wide receiver Sterling Sharpe and quarterback Brett Favre.

"We'll see at the end of the year who got the better end of the deal," Cobb said, laughing.

It's widely anticipated that barring injury, Cobb will become the first Packers player in 16 years to rush for 1,000 yards.

But Cobb, who has 3,061 yards rushing in four seasons, said he actually feels less of a burden in Green Bay.

"It's a lot easier to go out and play where you're not the one focal point," Cobb explained. "Last year, we had a young quarterback (Craig Erickson) and our experienced receivers got hurt. So, teams knew we were going to run the ball and they kind of stacked up on us.

"They made it tough for us. And here, I don't think teams are going to be able to do that too much.'

Not with Pro-Bowlers Sharpe, who broke his own single-season record with 112 receptions last year, and Favre, who ranked second in the league with 318 completions and second in the National Football Conference with 3,303

Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren said Cobb "gives us the type of back who can play every down. He is an exceptional, instinctive runner" who could become the first Packers player to rush for 1,000 yards since Terdell Middleton in 1978.

"I came here to help this team get a running game. As long as I do that, I think I have the opportunity to get 1,000," said Cobb, who rushed for 1,171 yards in

He was limited to 658 yards last year when he missed four games with a sprained left knee.

"I'm fine now. It's just something that needed time to heal. You don't have time to let it heal during the season," Cobb said.

At 26, Cobb said he feels fortunate to hook up with a team on the

"My best years are ahead of me," he said. "Hopefully, being a part of a winning team will add to that. I didn't feel I could be the best back I could be in Tampa, the way things were going.

'Contrary to what people believe, there's a lot of talent in Tampa. It's just that things have never jelled together there. When you're not winning, you don't get the recognition.

Reggie Cobb's confident he can shoulder Packers' offensive load.

his first season with the Packers. "We just have to wait.

I'm hoping it's not as bad as it appeared," coach Mike Holmgren said.

Prior to Monday, a day which also included the signing of first-round draft pick Aaron Taylor to a contract believed to be for four years and worth $4 million, the Packers' roster included only three other tight ends: Ed West, a 32-year-old in his 11th season, and two rookies, Charlie Dean and Jeff Wilner. Tight end Jackie Harris, an outstanding deep-threat receiver, departed for Tampa Bay in the off-season via free agency.

"It's one of those things," Holmgren said. "Every once in awhile, it seems like we get hit at a position."

But the Packers claimed rookie Bob Brasher on waivers from the Los Angeles Rams Monday afternoon in an effort to bolster the tight end position. The 6-foot-5, 244-pound

NASCAR drivers want protection at Brickyard

Early draws could hinder their chances

By Tom Higgins Knight-Ridder Newspapers

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — What's the biggest concern for the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's Winston Cup Series teams as they direct intense attention to the Aug. 6 Brickyard 400?

Making the field. Approximately 80 cars have been entered, as drivers from a anapolis Motor Speedway. A maximum of 44 cars will start.

Unfortunately — and unfairly the qualifying format may play as much a part in who races and who doesn't as having a fast car.

Time trials for positions one through 20 will be decided in runs against the clock beginning at 2 p.m. (CDT) on Aug. 4. Qualifying runs starting at 2 p.m. Aug. 5 will set positions 21-40.

With so many cars in competition for a starting spot, trials will continue beyond 5 p.m. in the first round, and possibly that late in the second round. This means a decided advantage variety of sanctioning bodies want for the drivers drawing late spots in to be part of the first race other the qualifying line. Both the air and then, increasing speeds.

'The track might be as much as several tenths of a second faster late in the day," said three-time Winston Cup champion Darrell Waltrip. "Why do you think we see IndyCar drivers, who can qualify anytime they wish for the (Indianapolis) 500, wait as late as possible to go out?"

Winston Cup regulars are lobbying NASCAR officials to give them a break in 400 qualifying, the first round of which will be telecast live

The Waltrip brothers, Darrell and Michael, offer what seem fair

"They should let the full-time Winston Cup guys qualify last, than the Indy 500 ever held at Indi- the racing surface will be cooler reversing the standings order among the top 40 in points to do it," Michael Waltrip said.

That would put Ernie Irvan, the points leader, last, and Dale Earnhardt next to last, with the 40thplace driver in the Winston Cup standings about midway through

"I hope NASCAR will step up and do what's right," Michael Waltrip said.

Darrell Waltrip's suggestion is slightly different.

"Let the top 40 in Winston Cup points draw for the final 40 qualifying positions and the others who have entered from Winston West and ARCA (the Automobile Racing Club of America) and all the rest draw for the opening 40," he said.

"This may not seem fair to some degree.

'But I think for the benefit of those who compete on this circuit, who have their heart and soul and all their lifetime earnings invested in it, some accommodation should be made to give them every opportunity to make this field."

Said Earnhardt: "I don't fault anyone for wanting to run that race. But if outsiders come in and bump our guys out of the race because they got a break in the time they qualified, it'll be tough to take. 'From what we've seen during testing at Indianapolis, I'd say if you draw an early number to qualify, your chances are cooked. 'We've worked to build our sport take care of its own.

and circuit and I think the full-time Winston Cup teams deserve to be in the 400, and if they aren't it'll take a little bit away from it."

So far, the only move NASCAR has made to distinguish between regulars and others is to separate them into practice groups. Group I includes the top 40 in Winston Cup points plus the top five in the Winston West standings. Group II includes everyone not in Group I.

If possible, NASCAR should adopt one of the Waltrips' ideas, or a modification of the two.

For a race as important as the Brickyard 400, NASCAR needs to Keenan shrugs off punishment

Calls settlement fair for all involved parties ST. LOUIS (AP) - Mike Keenan, cleared by the National Hockey League to become coach and general manager of the Blues, returned to St. Louis Monday, sounding not at all like a man who had just been fined $500,000 and suspended for two months without pay.

"I feel fantastic," he said. After eight hours of talks Sunday in New York at the office of NHL commissioner Bett-Gary man, a settlement was reached in the dispute involv-Keenan, ing former team, the New York Rangers, and his new one, the St. Louis Blues. Bettman suspended Keenan for 60 days beginning Monday, fined him $100,000, and ordered him to fair.

NHL

return four-fifths of his $500,000 signing bonus with the Rangers, whom he coached last season to their first Stanley Cup title in 54

The Blues were fined $250,000, the league maximum. The Detroit Red Wings, who tried to hire Keenan before he agreed to terms with the Blues, were fined $25,000. New York also was fined $25,000 for filing a lawsuit to keep Keenan from signing with St. Louis. And the Rangers agreed to drop the lawsuit and pay Keenan the $608,000 playoff bonus that set off the whole chain of events. Bettman, who took over as commissioner in 1993, had stern words for all three teams involved. "Such conduct cannot and will not be tolerated," he said.

"Mr. Bettman did a fabulous job bringing the parties together and resolving this situation," Keenan said. "I have a great deal of respect for him and what he was able to accomplish.' Keenan declared himself a free agent July 15 when the Rangers were a day late with the bonus payment. He signed with the Blues two days later, prompting the Rangers' lawsuit.

The Blues and Rangers settled their differences Saturday in New York. The teams agreed to a trade that sent center Petr Nedved to New York for Esa Tikkanen and Doug Lidster.

Nedved has 69 goals and 75 assists in four seasons. Tikkanen played on four Stanley Cup winners in his nine seasons with the Edmonton Oilers, before being traded to New York and being part of last season's championship team. The suspension means Keenan will miss virtually all of preseason.

LETTERS TO THE SPORTS EDITOR

Keenan called the settlement

Jackson should sit out, too

So Stu Jackson is going to Vancouver. Too bad he'll have to sit out a year. Oops! I forgot. That rule only applies to the unpaid athletes who actually generate the revenue so college coaches and administrators like Jackson, Barry Alvarez, Pat Richter, et al, can be paid hundreds of thousands of dollars per fith talks about going somehwere else he is branded as being disloyal and immature. But when a wellpaid coach does the same it is viewed with a "Well, that's business" attitude. Why is it more acceptable to desert a very well-paying job in pursuit of even more money than it

Funny how when Rashard Grifis to simply want to transfer to a different school? Maybe the National Collegiate Athletic Association should adopt a rule that says when coaches or administrators leave before the end of their contract they have to sit out a year, just like the athletes. After all, fair is fair.

Baggot's column unfair

I am disappointed by Andy Baggot's column (July 21). Too bad the article could not have covered Stu Jackson's basketball program. I believe Stu Jackson was hired to win basketball games, fill the stands and recruit successful students. Why not critique him on what he was hired to do rather than write an article for the Snoop column about an individual you never inter-

If you find it necessary to report on Stu Jackson, the individual, why not do your homework to write a well-rounded report? How does he as an individual compare to other Big Ten coaches such as Bobby Knight? What about his efforts in our community to encourage and support youth?

I am disappointed by the lack of effort expended for this unresearched column. The act of commenting publicly on an individual you have never interviewed seems itself quite arrogant. You do not appear to take seriously the power you have to color the public's impression in this public forum where those criticized have little opportunity to respond to the same audi-

Italy loss went beyond Baggio

- Darrell Behnke, Madison

I have little interest in soccer. The only time I saw any of the World Cup competition, other than the news clips on the evening news, was the final couple of minutes of Sunday's final match, along with the shootout. However, I do take issue with your headline, "Baggio fails . . ." as if he was the sole reason for Italy's loss. What about the other two players who missed their shots also? How about the remainder of the team, which also failed to score in 120 minutes of play? Aren't they as much at fault in the loss? I understand that Baggio played the whole match with a partially torn hamstring. Shouldn't he get more credit than a headline saying "you player in UW history to surpass 200 points. A return to the Badgers would make Fairchild a prime candidate for the Hobey Baker Award, which is given annually to the nation's best college player. No Wisconsin player has ever won the Hobey. Losing an offensive catalyst such as Fairchild only magnifies the importance of having a proven performer like Carey in the fold. After being voted WCHA rookie of the year in 1993, he was 24-13-1 with a 3.04 goals against and .902 save ratio last season. The backup to Carey is sophomore Kirk Daubenspeck, who played in only seven games a year ago.

push for Carey because they fear further instruction from Wisconsin coaches will inhibit his ability to adapt quickly to the pro level. No doubt their judgment is based on their experiences with Duane Derksen, a one-time UW standout and fourth-round draft choice who floundered mightily in the Washington farm system before being released from his contract after the 1993-94 season. Bill Howard, who has coached can offer some strong examples to argue that point. Mike Richter, who helped guide the New York Rangers to the Stanley Cup, and Curtis Joseph, a standout with the St. Louis Blues, were tutored by Howard. 'They said they thought that I've

Agent: Manning to sign with Suns

Danny Manning, the free agent forward from the Atlanta Hawks, has all but signed with the Phoenix Suns, according to Manning's agent Ron Grinker.

The Suns would have to rework their payroll to get Manning under the salary cap. The Suns signed A.C. Green earlier this week to a five-year deal reportedly worth $25 million.

Manning played five-plus years for the Los Angeles Clippers before being traded Feb. 24 to Atlanta for Dominique Wilkins.

■ The Orlando Magic is on the verge of a complex trade and player shuffle that would open the way to sign Chicago Bulls allstar forward Horace Grant.

The deal would open a $2.125 million first-year salary slot for Grant and give him a $22.3 million contract over six years.

The Magic plans to trade guard Scott Skiles to Sacramento for guard Spud Webb. Then the Magic would release forward Dennis Scott and sign Grant into Skiles' vacated salary slot.

Bill Fitch, who guided the Boston Celtics to the 1981 NBA championship, was hired as coach of the Los Angeles Clippers, the fifth NBA team he will coach.

Financial terms of his reported multi-year contract were not announced.

The Clippers had been without a coach since firing Bob Weiss

Fitch hasn't coached since he was fired by the New Jersey Nets in 1992. In 21 previous seasons as an NBA coach, Fitch spent nine years with Cleveland, four in Boston, five in Houston and three with New Jersey.

■ Derrick Coleman, saying he is intent on clearing his name, filed a lawsuit against the woman who accused the New Jersey Nets star of rape. The suit seeks damages in excess of $10,000.

■ Chicago's Scott Williams, 26, signed a seven-year contract with the Philadelphia 76ers.

NBC money helps Cotton Bowl bid

NBC boosted its rights fees to $5 million a year in hopes of the Cotton Bowl becoming one of the four bowls televised during prime hours, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

Network sources told the newspaper that NBC increased its rights fees from $3 million a year for the 1996-2001 games, adding $12 million to the Cotton Bowl bid over the next six years.

The move put the Cotton Bowl's bid for six alliance games in the $100 million range, the newspaper said.

The Cotton Bowl and eight other bowls made presentations Thursday to a group of National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I-A commissioners selecting alliance bowls.

The Rose Bowl has been guaranteed one of the "Tier I" games. The alliance will feature exclusive prime-time TV slots Dec. 31, Jan. 1 and Jan. 2 after 1995.

The commissioners probably won't select the three winning bowls until mid- to late August.

ODDS & ENDS

Michael Schumacher is appealing his two-race ban and will drive in this weekend's German Grand Prix. However, Schumacher, the leader in the Formula One standings, could receive even tougher penalties from the International Automobile Federation, the sport's ruling body, when his appeal is heard, probably next week. . . The National Hockey League's goal of having its stars participate in the 1998 Winter Olympics moved one step forward Thursday. The league and the International Ice Hockey Federation announced they had forged an agreement on issues dealing with international play. The ruling still must get the approval of the International Olympic Committee, the various national Olympic committees and the NHL Players Association. Providence College hired Paul Pooley, an assistant coach at national champion Lake Superior State, as head hockey coach. Pooley, 33, the all-time leading scorer in Ohio State history who played with the Winnipeg Jets, replaces Mike McShane who resigned in April. . . . Andre Agassi, the No. 8 seed, saved two match points in the tiebreaker and went on to a 3-6, 6-1, 7-6 (9-7) victory over David Wheaton in the third round of the Player's International men's tennis tournament. Agassi will play top-seeded Sergi Bruguera of Spain in the quarterfinals. In the upset of the round, No. 14 MaliVai Washington beat third-seeded Michael Chang, 6-4, 6-4. . . . Nate Cebrun, a Las Vegas sports agent linked with the Florida State football scandal, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $2,000 for failing to register with the state.

Sharpe may return ahead of schedule

By Kent Youngblood Sports reporter

GREEN BAY - So far, during the Green Bay Packers' training camp, Sterling Sharpe hasn't been seen practicing but he's certainly been heard.

Just ask any player who has felt the sting of his Sharp(e) tongue.

The Packers' record-setting wide receiver is still recovering from March 23 surgery to repair a turf toe injury. He has been watching each practice in sweats, doing his best to teach his craft to the team's youthful receivers corps. He's doing his best to rib anyone who makes a mistake.

"He thinks he's a coach," said Packers head coach Mike Holmgren. "Instead of being yelled at, he likes to yell at the other guy."

That, however, may change sooner than expected. Holmgren had said that Sharpe would not play until the regular-season opener. Thursday morning he moved that timetable up a week.

'The plan for Sterling — we set it down last night — is to hopefully play him in the last preseason game," Holmgren said. "Practice him full-go the week prior to that game and between now and that point condition him.'

Holmgren said Sharpe has begun to do some straight-ahead running.

"We're not taking many chances on him cutting," he said. "He can run straight ahead pretty good and he can jump and things like that, but we haven't asked him to do any sharp cuts. We're probably being overly cautious. He's anxious to go, but we have to do the right thing.'

Sharpe hasn't practiced with the team since the week before the game at Kansas City on Nov. 8. Injury update: McMichael was held out of practice Thursday, but Holmgren said the 36-year-old wasn't seriously hurt.

"In the scrimmage yesterday, he got rolled up on his (left) leg," Holmgren said. "It was bothering him so I gave him the morning off. I will do that periodically with what I call our senior citizens anyway."

Holmgren said guard Guy McIntyre, who is still nursing a hamstring pull and hasn't practiced yet, might be available Monday. Linebacker Keo Coleman also sat out with a sore Achilles' tendon.

"He really couldn't push off it this morning so we're going to have to take a look at it," Holmgren said. ■ New faces: The Packers added two new players Thursday by claiming tight end Charles Arbuckle from Indianapolis and signing offensive lineman Eddie Blake as a free agent. The 6-foot-4, 315-pound Blake, was very happy to have made the move from Miami, where he was released, to Green Bay. "Definitely," he said. "I just felt waived.

PACKERS NOTES

Rookie running back LeShon Johnson sprints for a touchdown during a controlled scrimmage Thursday.

I wasn't getting a fair shot (in Miami).'

Drafted by the Dolphins out of Auburn in the second round of the 1992 draft, Blake never played a regular-season game.

As a rookie, he was asked to switch to the defensive line, but ended up spending the year on the reserve/non-football injury list after dropping a weight on his left Switched back to guard last year, he was inactive the whole season. He bruised his knee in the exhibition season and was never activated, though he claimed Thursday that he could have played.

"I was going 100 percent in practice," Blake said. "Full speed." Blake said it was a poor relationship with John Sandusky — the Dolphins offensive line coach and not his injury that sidelined

'I knew that John Sandusky . . didn't like me," Blake said. "But I really didn't care. That's beyond football. I felt that Coach (Don) Shula wasn't man enough to step in and make the right decision to let me go ahead and play."

Blake — highly rated coming out of college — will join a highly competitive situation in Green Bay. The Packers have a number of quality guards, including McIntyre, Harry Galbreath, Jamie Dukes and Ed King.

The 6-foot-3, 248-pound Arbuckle played in all 16 games for the Indianapolis Colts last year.

Tight end Bob Brasher, with the team just three days, and offensive lineman Randy Bierman were

NFL NOTES

Platteville fans also get Browns

Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns joined the Chicago Bears at their National Football League training camp in Platteville on Thursday, giving the teams a chance to go up against some new faces for the first time this summer.

The Bears, who have been practicing since July 18, might be a little ahead of the Browns, who opened camp last Friday.

It was a family reunion for Chicago safety Mark Carrier and his cousin, Cleveland wide receiver Mark Carrier.

'It was good seeing him. We talked about things — his family, my wedding. We didn't talk football, we talked social things," the Bears safety said.

The Browns arrived Wednesday night, and the teams practiced twice Thursday, as they plan to do today, also.

A rookies scrimmage is scheduled for Pioneer Stadium at 10 a.m. Saturday; admission will be $4.

■ Chiefs' Barnett charged: Kansas City Chiefs wide receiver Tim Barnett was charged Thursday in Milwaukee with second-degree sexual assault of a child in connection with an incident involving a 14year-old girl.

The charge was filed after Barnett met with Milwaukee County Court Commissioner Frank Liska. Barnett's preliminary hearing was 'set for Aug. 8.

Barnett remained free on $3,500 bond. He is accused of grabbing a '14-year-old maid at a hotel and performing a sexual act.

Cowboys' Harper hurt again: Wide receiver Alvin Harper re-in-'jured his right shoulder in practice and might not be available for the Dallas Cowboys' preseason game against the Minnesota Vikings Sunday night in Texas Stadium.

protecting the ball. "Everyone makes mistakes. But there is a time when you can't." It was a crummy end to a difficult year. Especially for a guy who had first earned a National Football League job with special teams play. A wide receiver coming out of Vanderbilt in 1992, Houston drafted him but waived him five weeks into

He came to Green Bay and tied for the team lead with 14 special teams tackles despite playing in only 10 games. It was that play that prompted the Packers to move Harris to defensive back.

By the time last season started, Harris was seeing time as the extra defensive back in nickle defenses. He was having a marvelous season on special teams. By the time he got hurt, he had returned 13 kickoffs an average of 26.7 yards.

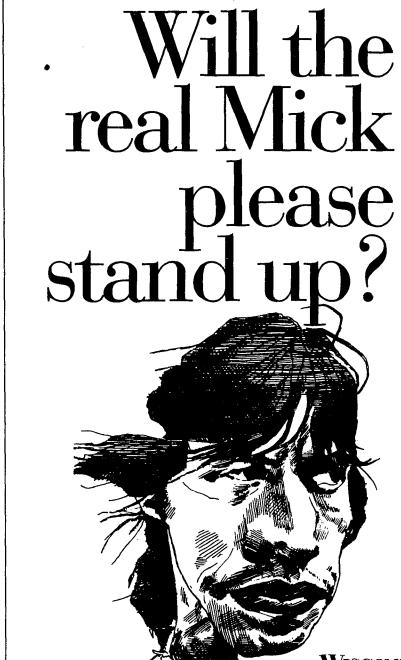

The injury changed everything. There was no surgery, just intense rehabilitation that allowed him to come back six games later. But by then he was out of the flow. When he returned, Doug Evans and Sammy Walker had taken his defensive duties.

And even though he returned to special teams play, he could tell he wasn't himself.

"I could work on my fundamentals," Harris said, "But there were
